TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber,
April 18th, 1910.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening.

Present—Mayor Simpson, Reeve Alexander and Councillors Osborne, Waller, Steacy, Hawley and Kimmery.

The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

Mr. Walter Exley, sr., addressed the council in reference to the drain in front of his property on Bridge street. About twenty years ago he had constructed a box drain and was of the opinion that this had become rotten and collapsed, causing a stoppage of the drain. He would like to have a tile drain constructed.

Moved by Councillors Waller and Osborne that sufficient title be granted to Mr. Exley, he to pay all other expenses. Carried.

A communication was read from The Robinson Co. asking that the telephone and electric light poles at the corner near their place of business be removed north on Centre street about ten feet. Laid on the table until later in the evening.

Coun. Osborne, chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee, laid on the table a communication he had received from the Electric Light Commissioners in reference to a proposition to secure electrical energy from The Trenton Electric and Water Co. Also a copy of the letter received by the Commissioners from the said Trenton Electric and Water Co.

The following letter speaks for itself:

MR. WALTERS,

Sec. of the Light and water Commissioners,

Napanee.

Dear Sir,—We beg to submit the following proposition, as a basis for a contract, for supplying electric energy to your town. We will build a transmission line and instal all apparatus in the Sub Station at Napanee. You, however, will have to erect the Sub Station building, at a point mutually agreed, upon, and under the supervision of our Engineers. This would not exceed at the outside $2500.00. It would be necessary for you to contract for 125 h. p. at $27.50 per h. p., per annum, for 24 hour service. All power taken, above this medium, would be charged at the rate of 1 1/2 per h. p. Contract would have to run for ten years. We are willing to supply a three phase system to all power consumers using 25 h. p. or over, making the necessary alterations in the substation equipment, and building separate power lines to such consumers, using your poles, however, where possible. Every increase of 50 h. p. over 150 h. p. that you may contract for, with us, will entitle you to a reduction of 50c per h. p. per annum. The minimum charge per h. p. however, by this gradation shall be $25. There will be no moving machinery in the substation, but it will be necessary for a duly qualified electrician, in your pay, to be in charge of this substation, under our supervision. His duties will be so light that he could also be the superintendent of your entire system.

When you are ready to go into the proposition further we will submit a contract for your consideration, which of course in time will have to be submitted to the electorate.

Yours truly,
The Trenton Electric & Water Co., Limited.

First you must select a good drying paint, one that dries hard and can be walked on, second one that when it does dry it won't mop off and thirdly it must cover well to be economical for the user. We have gone most thoroughly into the paint business and after trying all kinds of experiments we have proved to our satisfaction that Ramsay's and the Prism Brand will cover more surfaces (1 gallon 100 square feet) and dry better and wear longer than any other kind. A two-ton shipment of "canned eggs" has been received in London by a wholesale confectioner, and has been placed in cold storage. The product is Russian, and comes in cans containing 14 or 15 pounds. It is taken from the shell, frozen in the tins and sold in too lots. To thaw the eggs out the cans are placed in cold water. They cost less after freight is paid than the local product, it is claimed.

The following is taken from the Independent Oddfellow for April: For over a year Past Staff Officer, Captain E. C. Militant in his home town and on March 25th had the satisfaction of having his efforts crowned with success. On that date, acting under instructions of the Department Commander, Lieut. Col. John A. Toronto is vying with Montreal to be the headquarters of some of the largest Canadian Milling concerns. It is indicated by the developments that have occurred during the past few weeks in Toronto, resulting in the entrance into the Milling industry of some of the biggest of the younger capitalists of the Queen city. It is understood that two of the largest Ontario companies have been acquired as going concerns, and that the investment of a large amount of additional cash capital will enable the new company when arrangements have been completed to go ahead with the erection at a point in Ontario of what will be one of the largest and most modern mills there is in Canada.

The rivalry that has always existed between Toronto and Montreal in the larger financial transactions will result in the developments in connection with the new consolidation being watched with a great deal of interest.

Yours truly,

The Trenton Electric & Water Co. Limited.

Mr. F. F. Miller addressed the council and rehearsed some facts in connection with the above proposition and also answered several questions from the members of the council.

Moved by Coun. Osborne seconded by Reeve Alexander that the communication be received and that the Fire Water and Light Committee be instructed to confer with the commissioners in making a contract with the Trenton Electric and Water Co., or any other company, and report to the council at earliest convenience. Carried.

A communication was received from the Board of Railway Commissioners stating that a meeting of the Board would meet at Cobourg on Thursday April 21st, when the question of the Centre street level crossing would be discussed.

The clerk informed the council that he had answered the communication and asked that the discussion of this question be held over until a later date.

Messrs. R. C. Cartwright, T. Symington, F. S. Boyes, T. S. Henry, F. S. Richardson, Electa Grange, A. W. Grange, T. Jamieson and J. F. Walsh petitioned the council to have a ten inch tile sewer constructed on John street commencing from the G. T. R. station with the sewer already in existence at the corner of John and Thomas streets.

On motion of Councillors Osborne and Steacy the petition was referred back to the petitioners for further signatures.

The report of the auditors was read before the council and adopted.

Messrs. T. G. Carscallen, M. P. P., Dr. N. J. Sills and Thos. Johnston addressed the council in reference to a sewer which they would like to have constructed on Dundas street. The question had already been placed in the hands of the Streets Committee, but the above named gentlemen were present to ascertain the intentions of the council.

The Streets Committee reported, that owing to other business they were unable to make a report, but suggested that a petition be framed to be presented to council, and in the meantime an effort would be made to obtain the probable cost of the work asked for.

The Streets Committee made a verbal report as to having the streets cleaned. This year more streets were cleaned than usual, and at the next meeting the committee would present a report as to the cost, also the revenue from the sale of earth.

The Fire Water and Light Committee reported that they had caused to be placed $1000 more insurance on the fire hall contents and adjoining buildings.

A by-law empowering the mayor and treasurer to borrow $10,000 from the Merchants' Bank of Canada to meet current expenditure, was passed.

A by-law respecting the payment of taxes for 1910 was introduced and passed. The by-law provided that all taxes shall be paid in bulk on June 1st. A discount of two per cent will be allowed on all taxes paid on or before June 30th, and after September 1st an additional charge of five per cent will be added on all unpaid taxes.

On motion the clerk was instructed to write Mr. Snelling, of Kingston, district manager of the Bell Telephone Co., asking him to have moved the telephone pole at Robinson's corner, also two poles near the new iron bridge and one in front of the gangway leading into C. A. Anderson's livery. Also that the Electric Light Commissioners be asked to move one of their poles at Robinson's corner.

Coun. Osborne, chairman of Fire Water and Light Committee recommended the purchase of eleven feet of suction hose for the fire engine, a gun for the hose wagon, one dozen spanners, and three hose menders. No action taken.

PAID UP CAPITAL AND RESERVE OVER:

The Napanee Electric Light Commissioners have received an offer from The Trenton Electric and Water Company to supply electric energy for lighting and power purposes. The letter appears in our report of the town council proceedings.

This is an important matter to the town of Napanee and there is not the least doubt but that eventually the town will secure either this power or Hydro Electric Power. The chances of the town securing Hydro Electric Power are at present very vague, as the commission has as yet made no move for any power east of Toronto. This being the case it behooves our town authorities to bestir themselves and secure any available power offered, providing the price is satisfactory and will result in cutting down the present heavy charges incurred in providing electricity by steam power. Steam power can never successfully compete with water power, and the offer of the Trenton Electric Company to furnish power at $27.50 per h. p. per annum will effect a saving of over one thousand dollars a year over the present cost of supplying power in Napanee. To secure this power the town will be obliged to make a further investment of about two thousand five hundred dollars for a suitable transformer station. This is a small amount to invest to secure the undoubted advantages to be secured by using Trenton power. In addition to saving over a thousand dollars per year over present expenses, the town will secure a twenty-four hour service, which will make an immediate increase in the quantity of current used. It will also furnish current for motors, fans, etc., of which a number would be installed as soon as day power was available, and there are innumerable ways in which electricity would be used in day time provided power could be had for the purpose at a reasonable price. All these small users of power would furnish a day load when lighting is not wanted and would not cost the town anything extra for current while furnishing considerable extra revenue. The town would be obliged to pay for at least 125 h. p. which is a little more than the present peak load and very much over the ordinary load, so that the commissioners would have power to spare to take care of any new business offering. The cost of power at present, generated by steam, runs from about $40 per h. p. per annum, when running peak load up to $125 per h. p. per annum when the consumption of current is low.

The Trenton Electric Power Co. are prepared to start the construction of transmission lines as soon as a by-law confirming any agreement has received its second reading, and guarantee to deliver power in four months from the time work is commenced.

Napanee has made a large investment in engines, boilers, generators, etc., to produce power which would be good for emergencies only if power were secured from Trenton, but the saving to be made in cost of power and the advantage of having twenty-four hour a day power, fully outweighs any sentiment anyone might have in consigning the present equipment to emergency uses only.

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION.

SECTION No. 6

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 10 o'clock on Tuesday, the 26th April, 1910, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 6, Ontario Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications and the form of contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer, of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterboro, Ont. at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared, or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the Contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that cheques will not be considered unless made out in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and the place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000.00 made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security or part security for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,

L. K. JONES,

Secretary.

A FAITH FOR THE OPEN MIND

There is no Shorter Road to High Faith Than Love of Truth and Hatred of a Lie

"I have chosen the way of truth." Ps. cxix. 30.

No man ought to be robbed of the pleasures of religion for his own life simply because he finds himself unable to accept the limitations of certain other minds. No man needs to believe that the truth for all men must of necessity find its way through the smallest mental spigot amongst them. Truth cannot be thus confined.

There is a religion for the open mind. It is found in full faith in truth, in confidence that truth is larger than any of our means of measurement, greater than all our definitions; it gives assurance and hope that life has an ever increasing richness of meaning which becomes ours as we face forward into truth. It believes in the right and best that is coming to be.

This means to take our lives in terms of rational development, to accept the universe as a part of the process of growth, to believe that the highest hopes that have thrilled the breasts of men, hopes for freedom, justice, love, and right, hopes for a nobler world and a larger, freer being have been but our faint discernings of a glorious and divine purpose that runs through all.

The faith for the open mind holds that it is better to spend our days seeking out the enlarging, clearing vision before, even though now it seems far off, faint, and dim, than to wear them away in faking plaster casts of the footprints of it believes that if we will find the Lord of all life anywhere it will be in the living present and the vital future rather than in the dead past.

That faith plants its feet on ascertained facts; it can conceive of no conflict between truth in one form and truth in another, but it discerns between our descriptions of the truth we see in childhood and that open to the clearer eyes of manhood. That faith would rather be lost reverencing the fact than saved by some contract or credence in a pious fiction.

Supposing a man steps out on this faith, that this is an orderly world, a just universe, where in the end right and truth, justice and honor will not fail, does it matter to him then who wrote the book of Job or that of Daniel? The thing that matters is that he has found a simple programme of action and sees a new and glowing ideal before him. He can get aid out of Job while in doubt as to its author.

No man can walk life's ways with confidence who has based his highest hopes on foundations that he dare not examine. A religion that is afraid of facts results in a character without stability because based on a philosophy of conjecture or deceit.

Somehow to those who set themselves in absolute obedience to truth, who walk with the open mind waiting her word, who follow each day that enlarging light, there comes a wonderfully refreshing sense of the reality of things divine, a sense of a universe great enough to take into itself all the best that men have dreamed concerning.

THE MOST HIGH.

To the travelers on that way comes, too, a sense of fellowship with all who have lived for truth, a consciousness of the onward pressing of this great company into larger living, into a richer world, a nobler heaven and earth, so that the way has more light before than behind and the best is yet to be.

Here is a faith worth while, to believe that there is moving us all, working through us all, the great spirit of life, that which leads us all on into clearer views of truth, better knowledge of the ways of life, clearer sight of the faces of one another, deeper love and nobler living until we shall attain to that for which in ourselves we know we were born and meant to be.

This is to believe that this is a world of orderly progress, that here all things work together for this great and far off good, not for petty prizes of the present alone, to be confident that this living of ours is a highway and not a fool's maze, to take life in such divine terms and to yield ourselves to its high and heavenly purposes.

Lesson IV. Warning and Invitation, Matt. 11. 20-30. Golden Text, Matt. 11. 28.

Verse 20. The cities condemned are Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum. The mighty works done in those places and elsewhere constituted the reply of Jesus to the anxious question of John, and to the unstable, childish multitudes he had declared that these works were his vindication.

They repented not—Most of them hailed him as their deliverer. If Sodom, in a day of small things, was blotted out for its iniquity, how great should be the condemnation of Capernaum!

25-30. In all the Gospels there is no passage more certainly an authentic utterance of Jesus than this one, and yet it covers everything that John's Gospel claims for Christ.

25. Lord of heaven and earth—Because the Father is such, it is possible for him to make known his will unto whom he will. He has no communications for those who are complacently wise in their own understanding, but to those who are simple-hearted as babes, and therefore ready to receive the truth on good soil, he is ready to reveal it.

26. For so it was well-pleasing—The motive that prompted God in

SOME CRAZY CONVICTS

PRISONERS IN BIG PRISONS
HARD TO HANDLE.

Incidents Which Show the Vicious Nature of Some of These Men.

Some criminologists would have us believe that all criminals are mad. But the practical prison expert knows better. The greater proportion of convicts are sane enough, and under happier circumstances of birth and bringing up would doubtless have made useful and respectable members of society. All the same, the inmates of a big prison are kittle cattle, and warders or other prison officers will tell you that there are always a certain proportion whom you cannot count on, says Pearson's Weekly.

For weeks or months they go on quite quietly, cleaning their cells, doing their work, obeying rules, and gaining full marks, and then all of a sudden they break out, and do the very maddest things.

The prison farm at Dartmoor covers two thousand acres, and is so bare and open that, standing on the high ground above the prison, you can see every gang at work, even though some of them are fully two miles away. There are no hedges, very few trees except two plantations, and the only cover is

BARE STONE WALLS.

Consequently, unless a really thick fog sweeps across the moor, any attempt to escape is sheer madness. Yet, knowing all this perfectly well, a convict deliberately bolted one blazing summer morning and dashed for the boundary wall of the field in which he was working.

The warder in charge shouted to him to stop and then fired over his head. But he only ran the faster. A second warder challenged and also fired over his head, but the convict took no heed. Then a third, after shouting several times to the man to halt, let loose in earnest and brought him down with two buckshot in the leg.

This performance was on par with an incident at Portland last year. A convict who had been brought there from Maidstone learnt that his time was nearly up, and presumably by way of celebrating the event, rushed out of his gang in the quarry and proceeded to swarm up the mast of the crane.

Reaching the cap on top, he laid himself flat thereon and began cheering. The warder ordered him to come down; but not a bit of it, and, as a high wind made any attempt to remove him by force dangerous, he was left to enjoy himself.

He stuck it out for nearly two hours, and then getting tired of it, he elected to come down. But by this time he was so numbed with cold that

HE COULD NOT MOVE.

Eventually two riggers had to be sent for, and the silly fellow was with much trouble lowered to the ground. He could not stand, and had to be carried to the infirmary.

One can understand a prisoner getting a "down" on a warder and trying to revenge himself upon the HOME.

DISHES FOR THE SICK.

Toast for Garnishing. — For poached eggs, cut the bread into rounds with a large cake cutter before toasting. For small birds or asparagus, remove the crusts and cut into oblong pieces. For minces and fricassees, cut into small squares or diamonds. For a border, cut, after toasting, into inch and a half squares, and then into halves diagonally, making triangles; or cut into long pointed triangles.

Crisped Crackers.—Split butter crackers and spread with butter; put them, the buttered side up, in a pan, and brown in a hot oven. They are delicious with white and vegetable soups, and in fish chowder and oyster stews. They can be prepared in a short time, when it is not convenient to fry croutons or to toast over an open fire.

Toast.—Cut stale bread in thin slices. Place them in a fine wire broiler, and move the broiler over a clear fire, turning often, until the bread is a uniform golden brown color. If to be used dry serve at once. If for water toast, dip each slice quickly into hot salted water, spread with butter, and serve hot.

Milk Toast.—Put a pint of milk into a spider, and a large tablespoonful of butter, and let the milk boil about five minutes. Have the bread toasted till dry, but not burned. Put the slices in the milk and boil till quite soft. Remove to a dish and pour the milk over them.

Cream Toast.—One pint of milk or cream, two even tablespoonfuls flour, two tablespoonfuls butter, one-half teaspoon salt, and six slices dry toast. Heat the milk, melt the butter in a granite sauce pan, add the flour, mix well and stir in one-third of the milk. Stir till it thickens and is smooth, then add the remainder gradually. Add the salt. Dip the dry toast in hot salted water; put it in a deep dish and pour the thickened cream over each slice.

Broiled Fillets of Chicken.—Remove the bone from the breast and thighs. Rub the meat with butter or olive oil; season and cover with fine cracker dust. Broil about ten minutes.

Oatmeal.—Put a teaspoonful of salt and a scant quart of boiling water in the top of a double boiler and place it on the stove. When the water boils, add gradually one cupful of coarse oatmeal. Cook ten minutes, then place it in the bottom of the double boiler and let it cook one hour. Put a tablespoonful of salt in the water in the lower boiler. When done remove the cover, stir with a fork to let the steam escape. Serve it on a platter and garnish with baked apples.

Browned Rice.—Cook one cupful of rice with three cupfuls of milk in a double boiler until soft. Season it with one teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of butter. Pack it closely in a small bread pan. When cold cut it in half inch slices and brown them delicately in hot butter. Or spread the slices slightly with butter, put them in a fine, well buttered gridiron, and color a light brown over a clear fire.

are Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum. The mighty works done in those places and elsewhere constituted the reply of Jesus to the anxious question of John, and to the unstable, childish multitudes he had declared that these works were his vindication.

They repented not—Most of them were Jews, who had no conception of a necessary change of heart before they could belong to the kingdom of God. As children of Abraham, and therefore sons of God, they looked upon their membership in the kingdom as a matter of course.

29. Chorazin. Not mentioned elsewhere, either in the Old Testament or the Gospels. It was a town about two miles from Capernaum, and passed very early into decay. Bethsaida. Some authorities think there were two places of this name. According to this belief one was Bethsaida Julias, on the eastern shore of the lake. Near it was the desert place where the feeding of the multitude occurred. It was raised to the rank of a city by Philip the tetrarch, and given the name of Caesar's daughter. The other Bethsaida was on the western shore of the lake, not far from Capernaum, and was known as Bethsaida of Galilee. Here lived Simon, Andrew, and Philip. This is the place upbraided by Jesus. There are now but few ruins to mark the site of the ancient city.

Tyre and Sidon. These two Phœnician towns are often coupled together in ancient history, both being of extreme antiquity. The former was sixty miles northwest of Capernaum, and Sidon, forty miles north. From both places the crowds came to attend upon the ministry of Jesus (Luke 6, 17). The Revised Version makes it plain (Mark 7, 24, 31) that Jesus visited these towns which belonged to the "way of the Gentiles." He was apparently so impressed by the eagerness of these people, whose light and opportunities were so much less, in contrast to the unbelief of those who were his own kin, that he believed if they had been given equal opportunity, they would have repented long ago.

32. More tolerable for Tyre and Sidon. Teaching that judgments will proceed according to the advantages which people have had, and the use they have made of them, guilt and condemnation being relative.

33. Capernaum. The headquarters of Jesus during the Galilean ministry, his "own city" (Matt. 9, 1). So completely have the traces of Capernaum been obliterated since its destruction that a long and as yet unsettled controversy has been waged over the question of its location.

Exalted unto heaven. An adaptation of the prophecy in Isa. 54, 13-15. Was ever city more highly favored? It was the only place where Jesus was said to be "at home" (Mark 2, 1, margin).

Hades. The term employed in the New Testament to describe the abode of departed spirits. Literally, it means "the hidden place." Here it is used symbolically, to picture the desolation and humiliation to which the once proud and lofty city shall be subjected.

If the mighty works had been done in Sodom, the people, instead of applauding his miracles and following after him as a hero, would have listened to his warnings and would have willed him to will. He has no communications for those who are complacently wise in their own understanding, but to those who are simple-hearted as babes, and therefore ready to receive the truth on good soil, he is ready to reveal it.

26. For so it was well-pleasing. The motive that prompted God in this method of revelation was that he preferred to have in his kingdom teachable children rather than arrogant pretenders. Jesus assumes an absolute knowledge of the motives which prompt God to action.

27. All things . . . delivered unto me. The authority which the Father has in heaven and earth he commits to his Son. Jesus exercised that authority under the limitations of the flesh, but, clothed in resurrection glory, he assumed it in full and sent forth the disciples to represent him among all nations (Matt. 28, 18).

No one knoweth the Son. Even John had shown his comparative ignorance of the meaning of Christ's life. The unreasonable crowd who had discarded the wailing of John also rejected the piping of Jesus. The favored cities had remained stolidly unrepentant. Only the Father knew him.

The Son, on the other hand, is alone in his knowledge of the Father (an amazing assumption if Jesus is less than the church has always affirmed). In a manner that is forever beyond others he knows God the Father Almighty. A knowledge of the Father, also, he claims to be able to reveal to those whom he shall choose, who must be, as before, the simplehearted.

28-30. Those who are without this communicated knowledge of the Father are plowing a hard furrow, and must labor without rest, and alone. If they will come unto Christ, and learn the Father's will from him who is alone able to teach, he will bear their heavy burden with them and make it light. The yoke is not an extra-burden, but only the implement by which the old burden is made light. It is not for one, but for two, to wear. In the double pull the yoke becomes easy and the burden light.

A DIRECTORY OF BREEDERS.

A Book of Great Interest to Stock Farmers.

The Branch of the Live Stock Commissioner at Ottawa has issued a revised edition of the Directory of breeders of pure bred live stock in Canada. According to the preface page the work is a compilation of information received through correspondence from breeders in all the provinces in regard to the size of their breeding herds, and the number of males and females of the several breeds they have for sale. The Directory is prepared to assist persons in locating herds, studs and flocks in their respective neighborhoods, or in distant provinces from which pure bred animals may be procured. It is stated in the Directory that copies will be sent to ranchmen, stock breeders, secretaries of farmers' institutes, agricultural societies, live stock associations, and others who may apply for them.

Your religion was born in the wrong place if the happiness of a child irritates it.

Eventually two riggers had to be sent for, and the silly fellow was with much trouble lowered to the ground. He could not stand, and had to be carried to the infirmary. One can understand a prisoner getting a "down" on a warder and trying to revenge himself upon the man, but there is a type of human tiger who will, like a wild beast, go for any one, officer or fellow prisoner, without any warning at all.

Three years ago, Captain Conor, Governor of Pankhurst, had an unpleasant experience with a brute of this type. The labor parties were being paraded for inspection before going to the cells for dinner, and, as usual, the governor, his deputy, and the chief warder were present. As one of the parties passed the group of officials, a convict suddenly stooped, picked up half a brick, and hurled it with all his force at the governor's head.

The aim was low, and the missile struck the governor in the chest, smashing his watch. The convict followed up his assault by springing from the ranks, rushing at Captain Conor, and kicking at him furiously. It took three warders to haul him off and CARRY HIM TO THE CELLS.

A visitor was once being shown over one of our great convict establishments when a small man in the hideous black-and-white punishment dress and wearing leg-irons attracted his attention.

"What has that man done?" he asked of the warder who was his guide.

"Turn round, sir," said the warder. And when he had done so the warder explained. "If he saw you looking at him, it is as likely as not he'd go for you. He's one of the most dangerous men we've got, and he's wearing the dress now for going for a warder with a big stone and trying to smash his skull for him."

This type of prisoner occasionally wrecks his cell. In the middle of the night pandemonium breaks out and by the time the warder on duty in the hall has summoned assistance, the man will be found sitting stark naked in the midst of smashed bed, torn blankets, and flattened tin ware, while his window has not a pane unsmashed.

Part of the punishment for this sort of thing is the canvas dress, which is not only untearable, but horribly uncomfortable. But even this won't cure the confirmed cell-wrecker.

MOVING HELPS.

Packing China.—When packing chinaware to be moved some distance, use a barrel and pack closely with crumpled paper. Tack a piece of gunny sack over open end of barrel. Freight handlers will not think of sending the barrel end over end when unloading, the usual manner of smashing goods.

Small Glass.—Save the glass from all small picture frames that you discard for some reason or other to cover bowls or left over food that you put away in pantry or icebox, then when you want to use a certain one of them you see at a glance where it is without uncovering two or three others first. It will be found a great convenience.

Japan has 500 earthquakes a year.

and one tablespoonful of butter. Pack it closely in a small bread pan. When cold cut it in half inch slices and brown them delicately in hot butter. Or spread the slices slightly with butter, put them in a fine, well buttered gridiron, and color a light brown over a clear fire.

Fried Chicken.—Singe; cut at the joints; remove the breast bones. Wipe each piece with a clean wet cloth; dredge with salt, pepper, and flour, and saute them in hot salt pork fat till brown and tender, but not burned. Arrange on a dish with boiled cauliflower or potato balls, and pour a white sauce over them. Or dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep hot fat and serve with tomato sauce.

Chicken Broth.—Clean the chicken and separate it at the joints. Remove all the skin and fat. Cover the chicken with cold water. Add one tablespoonful of salt, one salt-spoonful of pepper, one small onion sliced. Simmer until the chicken is tender. Remove the best part of the meat, and put the bones and gristle back to simmer until the bones are clean. Wash and soak two tablespoonfuls of rice half an hour. Strain the broth. Remove the fat. Put the broth on to boil again, and add to it the rice, and the nicest portions of meat, cut into small pieces. Simmer until the rice is tender. Add seasoning to taste and serve at once. A few spoonfuls of cream may be added if desired.

RICE.

Rice Hash.—Take equal parts of roast beef, chopped finely, and well seasoned and boiled rice. Mix thoroughly, put in buttered baking dish, cover with tomato sauce, well flavored with onion and bay leaf. Cover all with buttered bread crumbs and bake about half an hour.

Rice Pudding.—To three quarts of fresh milk add one-half cup of raw rice washed clean, two cups of granulated sugar, and two tablespoonfuls vanilla. Bake slowly three hours, stirring first hour often, then let crust form. Will be like thick cream when cold. Will serve eight people. Delicious.

Steamed Rice.—Wash two cupfuls of rice and throw into a large vessel of boiling salted water. Let boil furiously ten or fifteen minutes, then throw cold water in and pour all through a colander. Stand colander in a vessel containing very little water, cover closely, and let steam until the grains are tender and dry.

THE LAUNDRY.

Easy Way to Wash.—Soak all the white clothes the day before in lukewarm water, rubbing the soiled spots with naphtha soap. Then put over fire to melt two bars of any good washing soap with one cup of water. When thoroughly dissolved "take out of doors" and add one cup of gasoline. In the morning fill your boiler half full of water and put in two cupfuls of the soap mixture, turn your clothes out of soak and put in boiler and boil as usual; then rinse in two waters. You will find the clothes a snowy white without any rubbing. You may wash the calicoes in this suds without having them fade, as the gasoline sets the colors, and a painful may be strained through a cloth, to free from lint, for the stockings.

To Wash Rug.—One washing will make a rug look better than repeated sweepings and shakings. The rugs purchased abroad are washed repeatedly before they are brought to this country, making the colors rich and mellow. Tack the rug on a bit of bare floor, the back piazza being as good a place as any. Scrub thoroughly with warm ammonia suds and rinse with many clear waters, until all the soap is removed. Let the rug dry on the floor without removing the tacks. Then take it up and it will not shrink, roll nor pull out of shape. A preparation for washing rugs and carpets is made of four ounces of any good white soap dissolved in four ounces of boiling water. When cool add five ounces of ammonia, two and one-half ounces of alcohol, two and one-half ounces of glycerin, and two ounces of ether or chloroform. Bottle and cork tightly. To clean a rug add a teaspoonful of the preparation to a pail of tepid water. The same preparation is also good for cleaning men's clothes. Two tablespoonfuls to a pint of water will remove most obstinate stains.

LITTLE HELPS.

When there are almost, but not quite, enough potatoes for lunch—on hard boil two or three eggs, slice, mix with the cut up potatoes and pour cream gravy over them.

If you are troubled with ants try a little quicklime in the infested places. This will drive away any kind of ants.

To remove mildew from cloth.—Put a teaspoonful of chloride of lime in a quart of water, strain it twice, then dip the mildewed places in this weak solution, lay it in the sun. If the mildew has not disappeared when dry repeat.

To get rid of moths in furniture and cushions sprinkle with benzine. It will not spot or injure the most delicate of fabric, but it is sure death to moths. The work must be done in a place where there is neither a fire nor lighted lamp, as benzine is explosive.

Rub the mica of the hard coal stove with a small flannel saturated in vinegar and wipe with a dry flannel.

Don't throw away sour milk. It will make sweet light bread, griddle cakes, tea cakes, and pastry.

Don't wash meat more than is absolutely necessary, especially game and fowl, because it has a tendency to "destroy the natural sweetness."

Don't keep canned provisions in the cans after being opened; the air renders them unwholesome.

OPPOSITION TO MUSTACHE.

A Bank of England Order—When the Beard Was Popular.

Is the mustache about to disappear from the faces of the majority of the population of these islands? asks the Millgate (London) Monthly. It almost looks as if fashion was tending in that direction—at least judging from one's acquaintances.

The years are not far distant when the directors of the Bank of England issued an order for the clerks not to wear mustaches during business hours. This remarkable order afforded the public an

SOME WOMEN AERONAUTS

ASCENTS DATE BACK TO THE 18TH CENTURY.

Hon. Mrs. Assheton Harbord Has a Record That Might be Equalled by Men.

Even in these days of aeronautical enthusiasm and experts there are very few men who can point to such a record as that possessed by the Hon. Mrs. Assheton Harbord, who recently crossed the English Channel in a balloon and covered altogether 330 miles in just over fifteen hours. This is the fourth occasion on which Mrs. Assheton Harbord has crossed the channel by balloon, and altogether she has made over 100 ascents and taken part in six balloon races.

She owns two balloons which are stabled near the Battersea gas works, and it was from this spot that last year she made the journey to France which led to one of her most exciting adventures. After reaching the French coast she encountered a storm, the balloon being driven up and down and from east to west in violent cross winds, while lightning played round the car and snow half filled it.

ARRIVED ON HEADS.

On another occasion she started from Paris and arrived in Holland after a journey the speed of which worked out at seventy miles an hour. At the end of the run the balloon was approaching the North Sea at a terrific rate. In the nick of time the rip valve was used, and the balloon brought to earth within fifty yards of the sea. The car overturned and as Mrs. Assheton Harbord dryly records, "Princess di Teano and I can claim to be the first women to arrive in Holland on our heads."

The Princess di Teano referred to, who was Mrs. Assheton Harbord's companion on this occasion, is never so happy as when in the air and his made several long balloon expeditions. But her records, and even those of Mrs. Assheton Harbord, have been outshone by Mme. Surcouf, one of the presidents of the Stella Balloon Club of Paris which has nearly a hundred lady members. Not only has Mme. Surcouf a greater number of ascents to her credit than any other woman in the world, but she has accomplished ten journeys in balloons entirely alone.

ALL-AROUND SPORT.

Another enthusiastic fair balloonist is Mme. du Gast, probably the finest all-round sportswoman in the world, who is never so happy as when taking part in motor car or motor boat races, and who can hold her own very well with gun, tennis racket and on horse-back. A short time ago she had a special balloon made for her, and not content with making daring trips, indulged in several parachute descents.

And talking of the parachute calls to mind the thrilling balloon adventure of Miss Viola Spencer in August, 1908. Miss Spencer was engaged to make a parachute descent at a sports meeting near Nottingham, but when the balloon rose to a height of about 2,000 feet she

Tail of the Great Comet

Camille Flammarion, the Astronomer, Discusses Its Composition.

Camille Flammarion, the famous French astronomer, in discussing Halley's comet and the question whether its tail will touch the earth, writes as follows:—

Our readers have learned of the ghastly experience of that modern Gribouille who, through fear of Halley's comet, committed suicide the other day in Hungary, preferring, he said, to kill himself in advance rather than to be killed by the wandering star. At the moment when more than one person is disquieted by the event of the night of May 18-19 next, and when the attention of the entire world is concentrated on the deeds and actions of the comet, while the astronomers are actively studying and vivaciously discussing the problem of comets, we think it is interesting to review here the suggestions which Mr. W. H. Pickering, of the Observatory of Harvard College, has just made apropos of Halley's comet and its approaching meeting with the earth.

The most important question for the majority of the inhabitants of our planet is to know whether the gigantic tail will be so extended as to sweep the surface of the globe or even to envelope us entirely in its waves of vapor. It is difficult to affirm anything up to the present time, but we can recall that in almost all its previous appearances this celebrated comet has spread in space an elegant tail, sometimes immense but generally of medium length. Nevertheless, on the occasion of its last visit in 1835, a remarkable phenomenon occurred; during its perihelion passage, which took place on Nov. 16, the comet lost its tail, so that when it reappeared on the other side of the sun it had the appearance of a round nebulosity, without an appendage, and it was only later, when it reached the distance of the planet Mars, that a new tail was formed.

The interplanetary wanderer had been found on Aug. 5, 1835, and it was on Oct. 2 that astronomers began to witness the birth of the first tail.

PRODIGIOUS ACTIVITY.

The nucleus, which until then had appeared feeble and small, Sir John Herschel relates, became suddenly much more brilliant. It seemed to be the seat of a prodigious activity, sending out to a great distance currents of light. This emission, after having stopped for a time, was renewed with still more violence, reaching its maximum intensity on Oct. 8, and continued with intermissions until the luminous matter, thrown out in whirlwinds and ejected backward in the direction opposite to the sun, had formed a nebulous and transparent mass. The tail was born.

During the period of this formation the luminous jets varied constantly in form and were projected sometimes from one part of the ment and also its form. It is slightly curved we will pass its axis a little later. The combined speed of the earth and of the tail at the moment of meeting will be 4,800 kilometres (2,875 miles) a minute, or 276,000 kilometres (172,500 miles) an hour. If observations can be made under good atmospheric conditions they will show us whether the tail is hollow or full, elliptical or circular in the plane of its section or, what is more probable, whether it is of irregular construction.

If it be admitted that this caudal appendage is exclusively composed of electrified gaseous molecules, very far apart one from the other, with which is mingled minute cosmic dust in insignificant quantity, the number of shooting stars which will appear on this famous night will not be as considerable as one might imagine. It is especially about May 6 that they should appear, when we will arrive in the vicinity of the comet's orbit. But we will doubtless witness some effect analogous to that of June 30, 1861. On that date it seems very probable that the earth traversed the tail of a comet, an event which, moreover, passed unperceived by the majority of the inhabitants of the terrestrial globe.

Nevertheless, Mr. Hind, the astronomer, in England, noticed in the heavens a very singular phosphorescent glow, and Mr. Lowe noted that the heavens presented a pale yellow appearance, recalling that of the aurora, although the sun was well below the horizon. This observation was recorded on the daily register of the parochial church before it became known that the earth had met the tail of a hairy star. The atmosphere was appreciably obscured and the comet presented a more nebulous appearance than on the preceding nights.

We see that if things pass as in 1835 it may be possible that the tail will not reach our world, because it will disappear after the perihelion passage, which will take place on April 20. On the other hand, Mr. Barnard, the astronomer, of the Yerkes Observatory, has already measured the length of the present tail, on Feb. 3 and Feb. 10, and has found that length to be 8,000,000 kilometres. On the same dates the width of the head was 307,000 kilometres. The same astronomer remarks as to this fact that the considerable extent of the tail two months before the perihelion "gives hopes" that we will be completely immersed in that appendage on the date of May 18.

He who lives will see.

THE QUINTA OR CUBA.

Annual Drawing for the Army or Navy in Spain.

At the age of eighteen, every male Spaniard becomes liable to acquaintances. The years are not far distant when the directors of the Bank of England issued an order for the clerks not to wear mustaches during business hours! This remarkable order afforded the public so much amusement that it was soon cancelled. Hull was one of the earliest towns in which the mustache was worn among policemen — the Watch Committee passing a resolution in 1859 permitting them to "wear a beard and a mustache if they think fit."

The head of a leading firm of drapers in Regent street refused at one time to employ shopmen who wore a mustache or those who parted their hair down the middle. The prejudice extended to the liberal professions. Barristers had a long fight for the mustache, and today it is not largely worn as in other professions.

The bishops in most instances opposed it, and at the present time mustaches are not popular, more especially among the High Church party. In 1892 quite a sensation was caused when it became known that the then Archbishop of York did not approve of the mustache among the clergy.

It was about 1855 that the beard movement took hold of the English people. The Crimean war had much to do with it. Our soldiers were permitted to forego the use of the razors as the hair on the face protected them from the cold and attacks of neuralgia.

About this period only one civilian of position in England had the hardihood to wear a mustache. This was George F. Muntz, member of Parliament for Birmingham. The enlightened electors, however, did not take kindly to the bearded politician. An officer candidate on one occasion received an intimation from the leader of his party that his mustache might prejudice him in the eyes of the rural population. The candidate replied that he was "determined to face it out."

CURIOUS STREET NAMES.

The list of curious street names is inexhaustible, says the London Chronicle. Bermondsey possesses a Pickle Herring street. Near Gray's Inn there is to be found a Cold Bath Square. Most of the Nightingale lanes and Love lanes are hidden ironically enough, in the slums of the East End. But for really bizarre street names one should go to Brussels. The Short street of the Long Chariot, the Street of the Red Haired Woman and the Street of Sorrows are remarkable enough to catch the least observant eye. The Street of the One Person is, as one might guess considerably narrower than Whitehall. But the cream of Brussels street names surely belongs to the Street of the Uncracked Silver Coconut. This in the original appears as one ponderous thirty-six letter word.

EXTRAVAGANCE.

New lodger (sarcastically)—"Is this all the soap there is in the room?"

Landlady (decidedly)—"Yes sir; all I will allow you."

New Lodger—"Well, I'll take two more rooms. I've got to wash my face in the morning."

calls to mind the thrilling balloon adventure of Miss Viola Spencer in August, 1908. Miss Spencer was engaged to make a parachute descent at a sports meeting near Nottingham, but when the balloon rose to a height of about 2,000 feet she found herself unable to liberate the parachute. The result was that she was carried helplessly by the balloon for a distance of thirty miles. She managed to keep her frail seat until the balloon descended by which time she had almost perished from the cold.

DOING IT SINCE 1783.

The idea, however, that it is only of late years that ladies have indulged in balloon trips is quite erroneous. As a matter of fact, between 1783 and 1849 forty-nine women made balloon ascents, half of whom were English women. The first English woman to make a balloon ascent was Mrs. Sage, who went up in 1784 with a well-known aeronaut of that day, Mr. Lunardi, a cat, a dog and a pigeon being also of the party.

One of the most daring of English lady aeronauts was Miss Stocks, who commenced her experience of balloon ascents by nearly being the victim of a fatal accident. In company with Mr. Harris, a well-known aeronaut, she made an ascent in the "Royal George," which was wrecked on some trees in Lady Gee's park at Beddington, Surrey. Both Mr. Harris and Miss Stocks were thrown out, the fall killing Mr. Harris. Miss Stocks happily recovered from her injuries and made many more ascents.

GENERALLY A MISFIT.

Greatness which is thrust upon people seldom sets well.

"Tommy, do you want some nice plum jam?" Tommy—"Yes, mother." "I was going to give you some to put on your bread, but I've lost the key of the pantry." "You don't need the key, mother. I can reach down through the window and open the door from the inside." "That's what I wanted to know. Now just wait till father comes home."

THE HERO.

"Sir, I wish to make your daughter my wife."

The old man hesitated. "Hadm't you better see her mother first?" he asked, gently, after thinking a moment.

"I've seen her mother, and it doesn't make any difference—I'm willing to take the chances!" exclaimed the youth, with all the ardor of honest love.

HE ANSWERED 'EM.

An alien wanted to be naturalized and was required to fill out a blank. The first three lines had the following questions:

"Name?" "Born?" and "Business?"

He answered:
"Name, Michael Harris; born, yes; business, booming."

site to the sun, had formed a nebulous and transparent mass. The tail was born.

This variability of the luminous currents may be explained by a rotary movement of the nucleus about its axis, and this will be a phenomenon of particular interest to astronomers of Japan and Australia, who will observe in full daylight, on May 18 next, the passage of the comet's nucleus before the sun. But it will also be necessary that the head of the comet possesses a certain consistency to remain visible during the time of its passage before the dazzling disc of the sun.

Now Mr. Pickering adds that the head of a comet is composed of a swarm of meteors and a small quantity of gas extremely rarefied, which can only be discovered by the spectroscope. These meteors must be very much separated from one another, for they do not prevent one seeing the background of the heavens, even through the central part of the nucleus. On the other hand, the occultation of a star by a comet has been observed several times, and it has always been noticed that the latter does not diminish or alter in any way the brightness of the color of the star in front of which it passes. This observation was made on Halley's comet itself in 1835 by Struve at Dorpat and by Glaisher in England, and more recently still on Dec. 5 last by Herr Archenhold, of the Treptow Observatory, Berlin, who saw the comet pass before a very pale star of the twelfth magnitude without altering its light or its color. We may conclude then that the sun will not undergo any change or any appreciable weakening from the fact of the comet's passage.

ATTEMPTS AT MEASUREMENT. Nevertheless, it may be that among these meteors there are some very large ones and we ought to take advantage of the exceptionally favorable approach of the comet to endeavor to measure the size of these blocks. It is admitted that there can be distinguished a dark spot of a tenth of a second in diameter standing out from the background of a luminous disk.

At the distance of the comet on May 18, that is to say, twenty-three million kilometres, we might be able to see any opaque body measuring about 112 kilometres in width. We can hardly hope to discover solid masses of such a size in the nucleus, but it would be in itself an important result to learn with certainty that there do not exist projectiles so enormous in a comet's head. It will be for the astronomers stationed in the Far East to undertake this search, for they will be in the best conditions to follow the passage of the comet in broad daylight.

FOR EUROPEAN OBSERVERS.

European observers may see the tail cross their sky in the night of May 18 to 19, about two o'clock in the morning, Paris time. However, the exact hour will depend on the length of the tail at that moment.

THE QUINTA OR CUBA.

Annual Drawing for the Army or Navy in Spain.

At the age of eighteen, every male Spaniard becomes liable to serve either in the Army or Navy. But the Government does not need, or cannot afford, as many soldiers and sailors as there are young men in the country. The peace footing of the Army is only 80,000 and of the Navy about 6,000, in a country of which the population is seventeen millions. Hence the quinta, or choosing by lot of those who are to serve in the national forces.

The word quinta literally means the selection of every fifth man, or one man out of every five eligibles. The quinta takes place once a year in every town, and all the males resident in the district who have just completed their eighteenth year are called upon to participate. Those whom fortune appoints to serve their country are forthwith drafted into the Army or Navy.

Exemption may be bought in time of peace, the amount payable being £25; but youths approaching the military age frequently leave the country before they are summoned to the quinta. Cuba and the Argentine Republic, both Spanish-speaking countries, where work is abundant, are the commonest objectives of the sons of the working classes flying from conscription.

JEWELS AT COURT.

Some of the Finest Gems Possessed by English Women.

At the two courts held this spring rubies were the favorite gems, and some of the finest of these stones in England were to be seen. At the first court Queen Alexandra wore the Cullinan diamond and at the second she wore on her corsage the famous Agincourt stone, a pigeon blood ruby which belongs to the Crown of England.

Another wonderful ruby which makes rare appearances in public and was visible at the second court was Lady Carew's uncut stone of 133 carats which is over an inch long. It was obtained in Persia by Lady Carew's great-uncle some fifty years ago. On its four sides it carries the names and titles of the four great Emperors to whom it has belonged.

It has been bored from end to end and has evidently been worn as a necklet or armlet threaded on a cord. Lady Carew has had it mounted with a diamond for suspension from a neck-chain and it is as a pendant that she wears it. Her jewellers were anxious it should be mounted in a tiara, but that would not show the inscriptions, which form its most remarkable feature. The fact that four Eastern Emperors had their names incised upon it proved that it must have been regarded as a treasured heirloom and a powerful talisman.

Mrs. Gabblesley—"My! I was at the dentist's this afternoon, and he made me keep my mouth open a whole hour. It nearly killed me." Mrs. Stillwater—"Yes, but it might have been worse. If he had made you keep your mouth shut for half that time it would have killed you without a doubt."

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRING

Do Not Dose With Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need.

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order; that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you, and may easily develop into more serious trouble. Don't dose yourself with purgatives as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps make new blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite, and makes tired, depressed men and women bright, active and strong. Miss Mary Baker, Tancook, N. S., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a great blessing to me. Last year while I was attending school I became so weak and completely run down that I thought I would have to give up going to school. I was affected with dizzy spells and would fall down at any time. I got half a dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and before they were half gone I felt my strength returning. By the time I had used them all, the dizzy spells were completely gone, and I was again enjoying good health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GERMANS TO RAISE MEAT.

Statistical tables are used to illustrate the importance of meat production in Germany, which was formerly only a side issue of agriculture. To offset the high prices of feeds it is pointed out that more economy is needed in saving the waste of the cities which may be used for feeds or fertilizers, and more feeds must be grown at home if meat production is to be profitable. As the acreage in Germany cannot be increased to any extent, the yields per acre must be increased, and every available foot of land must be utilized.

THE MYSTERY CLEARED UP;

OR, THE HERITAGE OF MADAME YALTA.

CHAPTER V.—(Cont'd)

"She has possibly never seen you, but she must have been aware of the nature of your casket, and of the deposit of this casket with your banker. Around her swarm agents obscure but well informed and always ready to do her bidding. She had but to make a sign and the casket was brought to her."

"You admit, then, that this Carnoel was of the band, and that I was not wrong to secure him?"

"On that point I am not yet settled. It is possible that he gave indications, and may even have given them undesignedly. This lady is very skilful in making persons speak. The thing is to ascertain whether she had relations with the young man, and of that I can easily satisfy myself."

"I am curious to know how." "Dear Alexis Stepanowitch, you shall see, and that shortly. I came to Paris to clear up this matter. If you wish, we will begin this evening."

"Where?" "At the opera. The lady will probably be there. She has returned to Paris without a cavalier, to spread her nets in the hope of capturing a Russian sufficiently high in place to serve without suspecting her. Why should you not be this Russian?"

"If you are mad! You have just said that she knows what my occupation is in Paris."

"The more reason for her seeking to connect herself with you. If she has not already tried it, it is because the occasion has not presented itself. Remember, she is persuaded you will take her simply for a femme galante. She will not suspect that you know anything about her. She supposes herself to have all the advantage, and asks nothing better than to attract the man most formidable to her sect. This is, as you must know, their method. These ladies ingratiate themselves by every means with the enemies of their sect, that they may surprise their secrets and hinder their action. They have always one foot in the enemy's camp, and thus it is that they accomplish so much harm. Now is the time to pay them back in their own coin."

"By suffering myself to be seduced by this woman?" asked the colonel, ironically.

"Yes, and in profiting by your superiority over her. You can read her hand and she cannot read yours. You will go only so far as it suits you, and, however great her cunning, she will at last let you find out her vulnerable point. Besides, you have an ally in me. When I met her last summer in Switzerland I took care to assume the appearance of a liberal Russian, and it would be easy to make my liberalism still more pronounced until I have gained completely her confidence."

have money in his pocket, and the countess must pay her professors better than generals are paid in France. But that he should be on terms of intimacy with Borisoff is indeed inexplicable."

Whilst Maxime was holding this monologue, conversation was renewed at the table of the two Russians.

"If you could succeed," said Mouriatine, "in suppressing this creature without disturbance, you would regain the reputation for skill which the affair of the casket has somewhat impaired. It is the damsel in question who must be sent to Siberia, not M. de Carnoel."

"Parbleu!" exclaimed Borisoff, "I begin to believe you are right. Let us settle and leave. It seems to me this Frenchman is watching us surreptitiously, and I want to throw him off the track."

Mouriatine was of the same opinion. He called the waiter to settle his bill.

"It is unheard of," growled Maxime, cramming down his truffles to make an end of them. "Borisoff and the countess' fencing-master are intimate friends. And this Borisoff is a secret agent of Russian diplomacy; a spy, to call things by the right name. She is no conspirator that I know of; but she knows, perhaps, those who are, or at least those whom Georget assisted to steal the casket. Is this pretty professor betraying his mistress? She also has secrets, perhaps. Who knows if she is not selling them to this man whom we believe confined Robert de Carnoel? Parbleu! I know what to be at. She made me promise not to act against Borisoff, but I am not engaged to shut my eyes when I meet him. I have the right to go where he goes, and even to follow a monsieur of his acquaintance."

He would gladly have sacrificed the remainder of his dinner, but he could not break off abruptly from his partridge, scarcely yet touched, and precipitate himself into the street, without being remarked by the very persons whom he wished to watch unobserved.

So he resigned himself to suffer their departure, determining at the same time to cut short his sitting, and with that view taking double mouthfuls. He ascertained at a glance that they went toward the boulevard, and promised himself to follow them from afar up to the moment of separation, when he would give all his attention to the fencing-master. The colonel was now the countess' business, but he might and must study the proceedings of a hiring of the countess surprised in familiar intercourse with Borisoff.

It never occurred to him that this fencing-master acted, perhaps, on behalf of the countess, and in truth there appeared little probability that a subaltern of this class

One of the surprising things in this old world is the ease with which some sinners make money.

A Purely Vegetable Pill. — The chief ingredients of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are mandrake and dandelion, sedative and purgative, but perfectly harmless in their action. They cleanse and purify and have a most healthful effect upon the secretions of the digestive organs. The dyspeptic and all who suffer from liver and kidney ailments will find in these pills the most effective medicine in concentrated form that has yet been offered to the suffering.

RAVAGES OF ABSINTHE.

Major Henri Robert, in the course of an address in Paris on alcoholism, and especially on the abuse of absinthe, spoke in moving terms of the terrible ravages caused by the "green demon." The drink curse was, he declared, the direct cause of the decrease in the birth rate and of the physical and moral degeneracy observable in the French race. In the most contaminated districts the recruiting counsels had to refuse as many as 50 per cent. of the young men called to serve with the colors.

cunning, she will at last let you find out her vulnerable point. Besides, you have an ally in me. When I met her last summer in Switzerland I took care to assume the appearance of a liberal Russian, and it would be easy to make my liberalism still more pronounced until I have gained completely her confidence.

"If she saw you with me she would scarcely be ready to recognize you as a thorough partisan of her own."

"Oh, I shall not speak extravagantly. I shall be governed by circumstances. What I want is to discover whether this young man was really concerned in the theft, and if not, I have an easy way out of the situation, which will compromise no one."

"And you propose to begin operations this evening at the opera?" said Borisoff.

"Yes, if we meet the lady, as I hope. But, tell me, don't you think that young man looks at us rather often than is necessary—the one who came to ask you about M. de Carnoel?"

"He is a madcap, not worth occupying our attention."

"So be it, but if you take my advice we will raise the siege before he is through his dinner. The youth annoys me; and under other circumstances I should like to make him feel the point of my sword, grumbled Mouriatine, outlining the lunge with which he would be pleased to gratify Maxime.

At the same instant Maxime was struck by a sudden recollection:

"Ah! parbleu! I recognize him now; this man is the fencing-master of the countess. Yet no—I must be mistaken; but that cast of feature. When once I have seen a face I don't forget it—it was the change of costume that perplexed me. I even remember her calling him by his name—a Polish name."

While Maxime Dorgeres thus gathered up his recollections, Mouriatine shrugged his shoulders and said to Col. Borisoff: "Bah! I need not be disturbed about him. The young man is not thinking of us. Let us ask for coffee and light our cigars. We will take a smoke on the boulevard."

"You said you expected to meet this woman at the opera. May I ask on what you found this hope, having come straight from St. Petersburg?"

"I could not be expected to be so well informed as to the disposition a Parisian demoiselle will make of her evening. All I can affirm is that Wednesday is her day for the opera; there are then chances that we will meet her there—if not, we will find her somewhere to-morrow or next day."

"You are bent on presenting me, then?" asked the colonel, after a pause employed in sipping the coffee that had just been served:

"I am—in your interest."

There was silence for several moments. The two were observing each other. At the other end of the hall was one who observed them both while apparently absorbed in a partridge which had just been served.

"The more I look at that man," thought Maxime, "the more am I satisfied of having seen him, foil in hand, fencing with Mme. Yalta. How does it happen that I find him here dressed in the last extreme of fashion and dining at the dearest restaurant in Paris. This fencing-master was love good wices and master. The colonel was now the countess' business, but he might and must study the proceedings of a hiring of the countess surprised in familiar intercourse with Borisoff.

It never occurred to him that this fencing-master acted, perhaps, on behalf of the countess, and in truth there appeared little probability that a subaltern of this class would be entrusted with the private confidence of a great lady of the Avenue de Friedland.

The Frenchman is distanced," said Borisoff, on reaching the boulevard. "We have time to finish our cigars before going to the theatre."

"Especially," replied Mouriatine, "as I have taken the precaution to procure chairs just below the lady's box."

"I see you have thought of everything. However, if you had not found me, which might easily have been, since I was not anticipating your visit—"

"In that case I should have gone to the opera alone, for I am bent upon making use of this opportunity to meet the lady in question. But on going to your house I was told you would dine at your club, so I found you without difficulty. It is in that beautiful Rue de Vigny mansion that you have shut up your prisoner?"

"Yes," said Borisoff, "and I beg you to believe that he is out of the reach of all pursuit. The house is large and completely isolated. I have made interior arrangements to facilitate watchfulness and prevent flight. My prisoner is as well guarded as if he were shut up in a fortress at St. Petersburg."

"But," resumed Mouriatine, "you have been obliged to take your domestics into your confidence."

"Oh, my servants are all old soldiers or subalterns attached to a lower order of the Third Section, and accustomed to passive obedience. They are as mute as fish, and always ready to act promptly. Had I wished to get rid of the Frenchman, I had but to speak the word."

"But you have contented yourself with shutting him up in a cellar."

"That would have been useless. I have installed him in a large hall which serves me for a library. The doors of this apartment are all made fast and guarded. The windows look out on a garden, and are thirty feet from the ground. To fly, or to communicate with any one would be impossible. I have no neighbors."

They had just arrived at the Place de l'Opera. Had either of the two turned back, he would have seen Maxime, who had just set foot

23 THE PR

1896 NO. 15-10.

STATEMENT OF A TRAVELLER

IS SURE DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIS DIABETES

Geo. H. Watterworth, of Rodney,
Feels Like a Boy Again After Suffering From the Most Deadly of Kidney Diseases.

Rodney, Ont., April 4 (Special).
—Mr. Geo. H. Watterworth, a well-known travelling salesman, whose home is in this place, makes an unqualified statement that he was cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Yes," Mr. Watterworth said when asked regarding his cure,
"Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Diabetes. I took thirty-seven boxes in all but to-day I am restored to good health."

"I was also troubled with Rheumatism and Headache, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing and
I was always tired and nervous.
But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me and now I feel just like I did when I was a boy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Diabetes because it is a Kidney disease and there is no form of Kidney disease Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure. Mr. Watterworth's other ailments were caused by diseased Kidneys failing to strain impurities out of the blood, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them by curing on one of the shelters illuminated by the electric light. Having finished his dinner, he had darted off in a chance pursuit of the two Russians. He had sped in every direction, and perceived them at last, just as they were turning the corner of the Place de l'Opera.

"They are going to the opera," he murmured. "Decidedly they are intimate. I am not dressed and shall be taken for a provincial or usher, but I must know what these foreigners are about."

Maxime was a subscriber to the opera, and did not need to provide himself with a ticket. He suffered the couple he was in pursuit of to pass on in advance, and, five minutes after they had entered the door, presented himself at the comptroller's office, not without having pulled up the collar of his overcoat to disguise his black cravat.

The dress he wore suggested to him an idea.

Instead of taking his seat as usual, he would remain in the passage way of the orchestra until he discovered the colonel and his companion, and when he had ascertained in what part of the hall they were seated, would place himself so as not to lose sight of them.

The two were engaged in inspecting the boxes with their glasses, and, having taken a rapid view,
Mauriatine said to the colonel:

"She has not yet arrived."
"Are you certain she will come?"
retorted Borisoff, not sorry to find his companion's sagacity at fault.

"Certain! no. One is never certain what a woman will do above all a woman of this sort. But it is not late, and I do not despair of seeing her appear during the second act."

"And you think she will come alone?"

"Very likely. At Geneva, she

REAL FUN.

A fond mother sent her small boy into the country, and, after a week of anxiety, received the following reassuring letter:

"I got here all right, and I forgot to write before. It is a very nice place to have fun. A fellow and I went out in a boat, and the boat tipped over, and a man got me out, and I was so full of water that I didn't know nothing for a good long while. The other boy has to be buried when they find him. His mother came from her home, and she cried all the time."

"A horse kicked me over, and I have got to have some money to pay the doctor for mending my head. We are going to set an old barn on fire to-night, and I am not your son if we don't have some real fun. I lost my watch, and I am very sorry. I shall bring home some snakes and a toad, and I shall bring home a tamed crow, if I can get 'em in my trunk."

CORRECTED.

Some of his boys were taking but little interest in the lesson, and the teacher grew desperate.

"William Smith," he suddenly demanded, "are you listening?"

"Yes, sir!"

"Then perhaps you can tell me where Nelson was killed?"

"Trafalgar Square!" was the reply.

"Indeed!" sarcastically ejaculat-ed the teacher, when he had recovered his breath. "Then I suppose
Wellington was killed at Waterloo Station?"

"No, sir," responded William.
"That was Napoleon!"

CURED IN ONE MONTH.

If every woman, who has Kidney or Bladder trouble, could go to Davisville, Ont., and talk to Mrs. A. Simpson, they would do just as she did—take Gin Pills and cure themselves.

"For 14 or 15 years I had Kidney or Bladder trouble, suffering at times intense pain. I doctored continually but nothing gave me permanent relief until I was persuaded to try Gin Pills."

"Within a couple of days I received great relief and after taking one box was completely cured."

"Very likely. At Geneva she went everywhere without a cavalier. They called her the Solitaire."

"Does the lady understand Russian?"

"She pretends not, but I do not believe it. And I need hardly say that I shall not make use of our national tongue to speak to you confidentially in her presence."

"Ah!" said Borissoff, "there is a woman entering on our left, and a pretty woman, truly."

"It is she, my dear sir," murmured Mouriatine. "I should recognize her anywhere, were it only by her eyes."

"They are wonderful, truly; I have never seen such before."

"Then you have not met with her?"

"Never; and it astonishes me. If this marvel is a femme gálante, I do not understand why I have not remarked her, or why she has not been pointed out to me."

"I have already said that she is an apparition that only appears in Paris now and then, and is not disposed to exhibit herself."

"She is examining the orchestra chairs with extraordinary persistency; now she is directing her glass to the passage-way on our left."

AN INDESTRUCTIBLE SNAKE.

A South American Lizard Met Its Match.

Snakes on the pampas of South America have many enemies. Burrowing owls feed on them, and so do herons and storks, which kill them with a blow of their javelin beaks. The tyrant bird picks up the young snake by the tail, and flying to a branch or stone, uses the reptile as a ball until its life is battered out. The large lizard of the pampas, the iguana, is a famous snake-killer. It smites the snake to death with its powerful tail. Mr. Hudson, in his "Naturalist in La Plata," tells this story: "One day a friend of mine was riding out, looking after his cattle. One end of his lasso was attached to his saddle, and the remainder of the forty-foot line was allowed to trail on the ground. The rider noticed a large iguana lying apparently asleep, and although he rode within a few inches, it did not stir. But no sooner had the rider passed than the trailing lasso attracted the lizard's attention. It dashed after the slowly moving rope and dealt it a succession of violent blows with its tail. When the whole of the lasso, several yards of which had been pounded in vain, had passed by, the iguana, with uplifted head, gazed after it with astonishment. Never had such a wonderful snake crossed its path before."

Canadian Appreciation

Langham Hotel, London.

Gentlemen, I wish to express my appreciation of the 35 h.p. Daimler which you have delivered to me. Before shipping the car to Canada I made a three weeks' trial of it, covering some 1,200 miles. The car ran perfectly, and I never had the slightest trouble of any kind, and I think it quite lyes up to the many claims you make for it. The silence, smoothness of running, and power of acceleration on hills is really remarkable.

My petrol consumption was 16 miles to the gallon, including a great deal of driving in traffic. The tyres show no appreciable signs of wear, and I think it will prove light on tyres.

I am really delighted with the car. Yours sincerely,

OTTAWA NEWS.

No Conservative Convention.

With the decision of the Conservative party not to hold the long-talked-of convention, comes explicit confirmation of the statements given out with authority and extensively published and commented upon in the Conservative press, that there is a serious split in the party.

Conservative Dissension.

The feature of the case is that knowledge of differences within the party ranks, while quite obvious to an on-looker in the House, was first given to the world by the Conservative press.

One Conservative paper, the Toronto World, resents the attempts of another Conservative paper, the Toronto News, to make scapegoats of Foster, Haggart, Sproule and Geo. Taylor.

A caucus was held on Tuesday last, and the Ottawa Citizen, a Conservative paper, which had only a few days before alluded to the dissensions in the Conservative ranks, said of it that—

What People Are Told.

"At the conclusion a statement was issued that the reports that have lately appeared in newspapers concerning dissensions in the party were without real foundation."

This places the brand of unreliability upon the Conservative press which has distinctly stated the contrary to Conservative caucus denied. The same despatch says that the meeting expressed the utmost confidence in both Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk; at the same time Mr. Monk declines to follow the leadership of Mr. Borden. This seems like confusion worse confounded."

Doherty Takes Foster's Place.

Another of the statements made by the Conservative press throughout Canada was to the effect that ex-Judge Doherty, of Montreal, would take the place of Mr. Foster as deputy leader of the party in the House. This has been just as strenuously denied by another section of the Conservative press. In view of this, it was not a matter of surprise that on Wednesday in the absence of Mr. Borden, Mr. Doherty assumed the leadership of the Opposition and secured the postponement of the naval bill, alleging that Mr. Borden was indisposed.

How They Fight Together.

No dissensions, say the Conservative papers? Such a statement is ridiculous. On Tuesday Mr. Henderson, Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Macdonnell, Col. Sam Hughes and Mr. Currie, all Conservatives, fought for two hours against each other, to the amusement of the Liberals. Demands were made upon the chairman for the enforcement of apologies—diametrically opposite views were expressed upon the bill before the House, and recriminations became general. In the face of this the caucus "authorize the statement" that there are no dissensions.

As to the self-constituted leaders of the party, one has only to stop the first Conservative met with the corridors of the House, and find what is thought of this. The men on the front benches are regarded as in the wrong place by many who sit behind them, and the party press apparently holds the same view.

Should Blame Tory Press.

The Toronto News has led the way in keeping to the front the cry of "race and prejudice." At the last election it printed on the front page every day, a false and misleading statement with regard to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company. It knowingly suppressed the fact that the lands secured by the company were originally given by a Conservative government to a company of which Mr. E. B. Osler, Conservative member of Toronto, was the head. It has made charges against members of its own party, which have been branded by the party caucus as false, and now it makes the following statement, which is an eminent example of gross ignorance or moral turpitude. In its issue of April 12, is an article dealing with the National Transcontinental, and among other things the News says:—

Ignorance, or Worse.

"When ministers decline to investigate the facts set forth by Mr. Lumsden, the government shows either astounding incapacity or else utter corruption." When one considers that an investigation has been in progress for two months at the instance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, into charges made by Mr. Lumsden—not against either the government or the commission but against engineers appointed by himself, one is struck by the astounding audacity of the News.

When one reflects that Mr. Lumsden has already under oath expressed his sorrow for using the words "lost to confidence," and stated that if he had to write the letter again he would not use such language, one is struck with the quality of nerve which would induce such an article as that printed in the News.

With such an admission on the part of Mr. Lumsden the whole case crumbles the ground. If he had not lost confidence in his engineers there would Special Notice. BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 851 Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Power Transmission Line.

There has been a great deal to do about the St. Lawrence Power Transmission bill in the House. It has, from the first, been confounded with an attempt to dam the St. Lawrence. Conservatives would not be convinced that some connection existed between the two which would operate adversely to the public interest. This was their assumed position. It developed, however, that their objection to the bill was in the fact, that it would compete with the Hydro-Electric scheme of the Ontario government. Sir Wilfrid himself discovered the "nigger in the wood pile."

The Ontario government claims that the Hydro-Electric competes and prevents monopoly in the supply of energy. The St. Lawrence Transmission company would compete with the Hydro-Electric, therefore all the Conservatives in the House were opposed to it.

Hydro-Electric Monopoly.

The Ontario government establishes a system ostensibly to prevent monopoly, but desires to establish a

What People Are Told.

This places the brand of unreliability upon the Conservative press which has distinctly stated the contrary to be the case. The Toronto News says:

What Tory Paper Says.

"There is a feeling also that too many men within the party assume functions of leadership, and take upon themselves responsibilities which they are incapable of discharging, or which they have no right to assume."

This statement is branded as untrue according to the published statement said to have been handed out after the caucus.

Evidence of Dissension.

Then again Mr. Monk, Conservative leader in Quebec, has been weighed in the balance by the Toronto News and found wanting. After attacking him in unmeasured terms, the News refers to his "impotent leadership," and concludes by saying that "the universal feeling now is that Mr. Monk cannot continue in any official or semi-official relation to the party."

In the face of this the caucus reports that there are no dissensions in the party.

What Mr. Monk Says.

Mr. Monk has replied to the attacks of the News by saying, among other things, "that attacks and accusations coming from the fanatical organ you mention (The News,) seem best treated with contempt." He admits that he has differed from his leader and a majority of the party on several important matters. He concludes by saying: "I am told the editor is an adept at betrayals and calumnies, but this does not justify him in attributing crooked methods to anyone else."

Mr. Monk evidently does not regard the newspaper reports of dissension in the Conservative ranks as being without foundation.

Attempt to Square Things.

Another strange feature of the case was presented on Wednesday last. From Montreal comes the telegraphic news that at a meeting of the Conservatives of the Montreal district a letter was read from Mr. Borden, denying in positive terms that Mr. Monk was intriguing for the leadership of the party but admitting they differed on the naval bill. A resolution was moved assuring Mr. Monk that he possessed the undivided adhesion of his Quebec friends, and authorized the different clubs to prepare a demonstration in his honour.

This is the curious position then:—Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk differ on the naval bill, and Mr. Monk retains the confidence of his Quebec friends. These Quebec friends differ with Mr. Borden on his naval policy because they support Mr. Monk.

Admission of Differences.

If, therefore, Mr. Borden, the leader of the Conservative press differs from Mr. Monk, the leader of the Quebec wing of the party, and the Quebec wing supports Mr. Monk, there must be dissension in the party, which the Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. to write the letter again he would not use such language, one is struck with the quality of nerve which would induce such an article as that printed in the News.

With such an admission on the part of Mr. Lumsden the whole case crumbles the ground. If he had not lost confidence in his engineers there would have been no charges, consequently no investigation. Therefore, when he says he regrets the words, he practically exonerates the only men against whom he had any criticism to offer.

Why Did Lumsden Resign?

One is led to seek for a motive in the case of Mr. Lumsden, and it may be found in his own evidence. He was asked whether he had ever applied for an increase of salary and leave of absence for six months.

Mr. Lumsden would not give a direct reply. Upon important matters Mr. Lumsden's memory is defective. He remembered drafting a dozen letters to the commissioners which were not sent.

His Memory is Defective.

Mr. Macdonald brought him to the point by asking whether each one of them did not assign different reasons for resigning. The answer was "I may have put in other reasons, I can't say whether I did or not."

Mr. Lumsden could not say whether he received advice in writing his letters of resignation. He rather thought that was his own affair.

Reasonable Deduction.

Here we have it then—Mr. Lumsden admitting that he had applied for leave of absence and an increase of salary—that he had drafted a dozen letters, each giving a different reason for resigning—that he repented him of the reasons he ultimately gave, which constituted the charges now being enquired into—a clear exoneration of any wrongdoing on the part of anybody.

Is it any wonder that the Conservative members of the investigating committee thought it wiser to retire?

Regulate the Bowels

"I have been troubled with constipation for several years, and have tried a great many kinds of pills, as well as medicine from the doctor. Nothing seemed to help me until I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills. I found the little pills very effective, and I am thankful that at last I have a reliable remedy."

company would compete with the Hydro-Electric, therefore all the Conservatives in the House were opposed to it.

Hydro-Electric Monopoly.

The Ontario government establishes a system ostensibly to prevent monopoly, but desires to conduct its system as a glaring monopoly, and resents any attempt to provide competition.

The Transmission bill will enable the company to supply points, such as Brockville and Prescott with electrical energy, which they cannot now secure. The Hydro-Electric ignores the wants of Eastern Ontario, but would keep out every other company.

Will Provide Useful Competition.

Mr. Pardee, who was in charge of the bill, accepted several amendments which really did not affect the bill at all, but the Opposition thought they did. Throughout there has been a disposition to meet every reasonable demand of the Opposition. The fact that admissions were made that the line would compete with the Hydro-Electric upset the scheme of the opponents to the bill, and they took it out in amendments which really had no bearing on the bill.

The public should know without any reservation that this Power Transmission line is nothing more nor less than a transmission line. It has nothing to do with any attempt to dam the St. Lawrence or any other place. The bill is just what it purports to be on its face. It will provide wholesome competition to the Hydro-Electric or any other energy supplying organization to the end that the people may enjoy what they are entitled to—to wit—cheap power.

Compare the Policies.

The policies of the Ontario government and the Dominion government may be contrasted in this way. The Ontario government would create and maintain a monopoly of electric power and the Dominion government would provide competition and lower prices.

Synopsis of Last Season's Crops.

A bulletin of the census and statistics office, just issued, shows that at the end of March the quantity of wheat in farmers hands in the whole of Canada was about 18.28 per cent of the crop of last year. This is 30,484,000 out of 166,744,000 bushels. Of oats there was 40.3 per cent or 141,499,000 out of 353,466,000 bushels. Of barley there was 29.81 per cent or 16,517,000 out of 55,398,000 bushels. Of buckwheat there was 1,835,000 out of 7,806,000 bushels, being 23.50 per cent. Of corn, which was nearly all produced in Ontario, there was on farms at the end of March 3,604,000 bushels out of a total crop of 19,257,000 bushels. Of potatoes there was 43,289,000 out of 99,087,200 bushels or 43.68 per cent. Of turnips and other roots there was 15.93 per cent, being 17,166,000 out of 107,724,600 bushels. Of hay and clover there was 23.51 per cent, being 2,793,000 out of 11,877,100 tons.

Early Spring Opening.

Correspondents report an early opening of spring in all parts of Canada and in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta as well as in the counties of Ontario along Lake Erie and Lake Ontario about one-half of the seeding was finished at the end of March. Don't Be Bald

Almost Any One May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

You can easily find out for your-elf if your hair needs nourishment, if it is thinning, getting dry, harsh and brittle, or splitting at the ends. You simply have to pull a hair from the top of your head and closely examine its root. If the bulb is plump and rosy it is all right; if it is white and shrunken your hair is diseased and needs nourishment.

We have a remedy for hair troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. It will even grow hair on bald heads if the scalp is not glazed and 'shiny. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so sure that Rexall '93' Hair Tonic will completely eradicate dandruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall '93' Hair Tonic in every instance where it does not do as we claim or fails to give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall '93' Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is perfumed with a pleasant odor, and NEVER OPENING FLOWERS.

A Large Number of Plants Bear Cleistogamous Blossoms.

The never opening flower, or, as botanists call it, cleistogamy, is well illustrated by the case of the common sweet violet. The familiar purple, sweet scented blossom, which to most people is the violet flower, hardly ever produces any seed. But altogether unseen by most people it produces a number of minute, scentless and colorless flowers which never open.

These are self fertilized and produce abundant seed. The word cleistogamous expresses the fact that the fertilization takes place without the opening of the flower and hence without the agency of insects. Such never opening flowers occur in a large number of plants, sometimes along with blossoms of the ordinary sort and sometimes without them. It is a disputed point, however, whether there is any plant which in all circumstances will produce nothing but cleistogamous flowers.

There are nevertheless a number which normally produce nothing else. As regards fertility, the seeds produced by the cleistogamous flowers are never inferior to those of the ordinary blossoms. In some cases they are superior and in others they are the only seed produced by the plant.

It has been found that the amount of cleistogamy varies with the height of the plants. The shortest bear cleistogamic flowers only, and those a little taller have a few small open flowers in addition to the closed ones. The tallest plants have larger open flowers, with only a few cleistogamic.—Botanical Gazette.

Gold in Ancient Rome.

William Jacob in his "History of the Precious Metals" estimates from the accounts given by the Roman writers that in the reign of Augustus, the first of the emperors, when Rome was at the height of its power, the amount of gold in the Roman empire was nearly $2,000,000,000. This vast treasure had been gathered chiefly by conquest from various nations of Europe, Asia and Africa. There had been extensive mines in Spain and in the Atlas mountains of north Africa, but their yield in the wealth of kings and of cities in Asia and Egypt had been despoiled and carried away to enrich the conquerors.

The Climbers.

"I once knew a man," said the old colored brother, "who used ter fall two foot fer ever" one he climbed, but fallin' didn't stop him. He kep' a-climb-in'. He'd git so close to de top dat he'd reach out fer de highest limb, w'en down he'd go. But onc' w'en he'd done fell out de tree an' hit mighty hard a hurricane come 'long an' took de tree off wid it, an' dat man say: 'Dar, now! Ef I'd been in de top er dat tree, whar would I 'a' been?' An' he wuz des so happy dat he wuz holdin' his groun' dat he went ter dancin'."—Atlanta Constitution.

Over the Mark.

"Does he aim at realism in the stories he writes?"

"He may aim at it, but he doesn't hit within a million miles of it."

"How's that?"

"The hero of his last story is a 'spendthrift Scotchman.'"—Houston Post.

same period, but in Alberta the crop suffered to some extent from drouth at the seeding season and later from winter exposure.

Crops in Ontario.

In Ontario there was at the end of March 3,017,000 bushels of wheat as against 4,550,000 bushels last year, of oats 37,780,000 as against 44,715,000 bushels, of barley 4,920,000 as against 7,144,000 bushels, of potatoes 13,224,000 as against 10,026,000 bushels, of turnips and other roots, 11,658,000 as against 32,757,000 bushels in 1909.

Merchantable Crops.

The percentage of the products of the farm in 1910 which was of merchantable quality ranks high for all the crops in all the provinces, the only exception being potatoes in the Maritime provinces, where correspondents report heavy losses to this crop through rotting.

Crops of the Future.

If the 6,878,000 acres of land under crop in the Canadian West in 1909 produced 147,000,000 bushels, what will be the harvest when the 44,027,000 acres under homestead pre-emption and purchased homestead entry begin their yield? And even that will only be a beginning for the surveyed lands amount to 145,249,985 acres, while the total land area of the three provinces is 334,894,320 acres!

More New Land Discovered.

The building of the National Transcontinental railway will open up more virgin land than is under crop to-day in the western provinces. Long life to the Laurier government that does things.

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. E. Belwell, of 337 Provencher Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. This became very sore and blood-poisoning soon set in. For months after the children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me. "When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not have the desired effect. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was! Despite his care, however, it again festered and the ointments, liniments, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief. "The doctor thereupon advised me to go into the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed, and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand. "We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleaned, then healed. In under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well; and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of acute agony."

All mothers should note this case. Does things other Ranges cannot do

The Most Convenient Range in the World

In the Champion Interchangeable you can use coal alone, wood alone, or gas alone. You can use coal or wood and gas at the same time. You cannot do this with any other range. Champion also has a closed top for cooking with natural gas.

There cannot be an explosion in the Champion. You light the burners direct. The oven burner cannot be lighted until the door is open. No other gas range is so absolutely safe.

Ordinary gas ranges use the oven for keeping the dishes warm. The Champion has a warming closet.

Champion

INTERCHANGEABLE
GAS, COAL & WOOD Range

You can change the Champion from a gas range to a coal or wood range in three seconds. And while building a coal fire you can use gas under two pot holes and the broiler burner.

When the coal fire is burning you can still use gas on two top burners and broiler burner in oven, which is an invention worth while. Truly the Champion Interchangeable Steel Range does things other ranges cannot do.

The Champion will cost you about the same as a high-grade steel range. It can be supplied with two extra burners on right hand end, or an instantaneous water heater, or a reservoir heated by gas.

The Champion takes the place of two ranges, thus saving room in the kitchen. Considering these facts it is the best range investment in the world.

The demand for the Champion Interchangeable is already very large. There may be a scarcity later on. So we advise you to go to our agent and see this remarkable new range at once.

A booklet explaining the Champion fully will be mailed to you free if you will write to our nearest office.

JEWS REGAINING PALESTINE.

Zionist Movement Making Big Strides In Holy Land.

Despatches from Jerusalem tell of remarkable strides made during the last few years in the re-peopling of Palestine with Jews. The proclamation of the constitution in Turkey threw open the doors of Palestine and led to an enormous influx of Jewish colonists, who are already settled on some of the best lands of the country.

In Jerusalem alone four-fifths of the population now belongs to the Jewish faith. Large tracts of land around Lake Tiberias have been bought up from poor natives and converted into prosperous farms. The Plain of Sharon, between Jaffa and Lydda, is one vast garden, owned and tended by Jewish skill and labor. The Hauran, one of the most fertile wheat districts in the world, is being sold to Jewish syndicates.

Almost the whole of the extensive Plain of Esdrachon has been bought up by Jews. Their prosperous colonies spread from Dan to Beersheba, and even further south to the outskirts of Egypt. Thousands are escaping from Persia to find shelter and protection in the Holy Land, while every ship from Odessa carries some of them.

The Jordan Valley, once the property of the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid, is being eagerly sought after by Jewish capitalists. The Zionists, whose agents are distributed all over the land, are buying up the rich properties of the Mohammedan landlords, whose incomes since the revolution have lessened.

At Jaffa, Tiberias, Safed and Haifa (Mount Carmel) Jews are reckoned by tens of thousands. Towns like Ramoth-Gilead, Bethlehem, Nazareth and Gaza, where a few years ago no

Jew dared show his face, have now their Jewish quarters and synagogues.

The whole city of Jerusalem is essentially a Jewish town. Banking as well as trade and commerce is monopolized by Jews. The Government has found it necessary to organize a company of Jewish gendarmes.

Hundreds of thousands of pounds are annually sent from Europe and America to enable the colonists to build homes, hospitals, schools and invalid homes. Over one hundred Jewish schools already exist in Jerusalem alone. Synagogues are rising up everywhere.

The value of the land has risen four-fold. The ignorant and poverty-stricken fellahen (peasants) are being ousted from their homes and villages by the European Jew settler, whose modern agricultural implements and methods have made the land produce harvests never dreamed of by the natives. The Anglo-Palestine Co., a Zionist banking and commercial enterprise, is pushing the cause of Israel with energy.

Rapid Army Mobilization.

The finest example of rapid organization of an army was certainly the mobilization of the German army in 1870. On July 17 in that year the famous telegram, the shortest and most momentous ever dispatched, "Krieg Mobil," went forth from the headquarters at Berlin, and within a fortnight an army of 500,000 men, fully uniformed, equipped and provided with commissariat, was on its way to the French frontier. Of course it must be remembered that all these men had been previously warned and that all had been through their period of military training.—London Answers.

"How far are you going?" asked my fellow traveler as we came across the St. Gotthard. "To Paris," I replied. He looked puzzled. Then I recollected

A MONSTER PLOW.

Designed For Ten Horses, It Took Fifty to Move It.

What is said to be the largest plow in the world was made some years ago at Bakersfield, Cal. This plow was the result of the ingenuity of a ranch superintendent who had authority to make improvements, but not to introduce steam plows. The superintendent had grown very tired of preparing 3,000 acres of land for wheat with ordinary nine or twelve inch plows drawn by two horses.

He argued that if two horses could pull a twelve inch plow six horses could pull a plow thirty-six inches wide and that eight horses could pull a plow forty-eight inches wide. He made the calculations carefully, and, being clever with his pencil, also made drawings and sent for blacksmiths and machinists to construct a plow on his principle.

Some simple folk told him that his great plow would not work, but they contented themselves with saying this dogmatically without giving any mathematical reason therefor. So the superintendent went on with his plans.

The blacksmiths and machinists finished the plow in due time. The share was made to cut a fifty inch furrow. The top of it reached five feet above the ground to give room to throw the earth. The beam was more than a foot thick, but the machine was constructed to run between two great wheels, so that it could be turned around easily, and on the axle between these wheels was the seat for the man who was to drive the ten horses which were hitched to it.

The plow was brought to the great field, the ten horses were attached to it, the handles were raised, the driver mounted his seat, and the team was started. But as soon as the share struck well into the ground the horses stopped short. They were stuck fast. And yet the plow had not gone too deeply into the earth. But it was evident that they could not pull the plow. More horses were brought out, but not until fifty were attached did the plow move along.

Even then it required four men to hold the handles in order to keep the plow in the furrow. It was an economic failure.

Then the superintendent, through the intervention of some one who was a better mathematician than he, learned that he should have cubed the capacity of his twelve inch plow every time he doubled the width of it.

MOUNTAIN HEIGHTS.

May Be Measured by Means of an Ordinary Thermometer.

Heights of mountains or of airships can be measured by means of an ordinary thermometer. The greater the pressure of the atmosphere on the surface of water the greater temperature it takes to boil it. As we rise in the air less and less pressure of the air occurs, and water will boil at a lower temperature than 100 degrees C. (212 degrees F.). It has been figured out that for a few miles up for every thousand feet of ascent water will boil a degree lower. Thus if at the bottom of a mountain water boils at 99 degrees C. (210.2 degrees F.) and at the top at 98 degrees C. (208.4 degrees F.) the mountain is a thousand feet high.

In government and other scientific work extremely delicate thermometers are used. They are long, so that the scales may be divided into fractions of a degree. The entire instrument for the work is termed a thermobarometer, or hypsometer. It consists of a

Frost Gate Frames Are Welded—Not Coupled

Frost Gates are made of Steel Tubing. In every other Gate this Tubing is connected by threaded joints. These threads cut half-way into the Tube.

Because the joints, the weakest parts of other Gates, are the strongest parts of the Frost.

All Frost Gates have a Galvanized Finish—not an imitation paint.

The Frame, when bent or shaped, is accured clean of grease and scale.

The Zinc Galvanizing will now adhere permanently to this thoroughly cleaned Gate Frame. And the Zinc not only spreads over the surface but goes into it, becoming a part of the Pipe itself.

Every inch—hinges, latches, and all—are put through this same Galvanizing process.

The Frost Gate will now fight off rust or many, many years, and last longer than any other Gate we know of.

The finish of the Frost Gate is beautiful. It is smooth and silvery, and makes the Frost ornamental as well as useful.

When ordering, don't merely ask for a metal Gate. Say you want a Frost Galvanized Gate.

The Wire used in the Frost Gate is No. 4. This Wire is made and Galvanized by ourselves. It is the strongest Wire of its size in use.

NAMES OF CITIES.

They Are Frequently Miscalled by Travelers Abroad.

"How far are you going?" asked my fellow traveler as we came across the St. Gotthard. "To Paris," I replied. He looked puzzled. Then I recollected that he was an Italian and that he had told me he had never been out of Italy before. "Parigi," I said, smiling, and he knew at once what I meant.

Then it occurred to me to mention London to him and see if he understood. He obviously did not. "Londra," I translated. "Ah, Londra!" he repeated. "Yes, yes." Here were two of us journeying together across Europe in an age which is supposed to have broken down the barriers that once hindered free intercourse, yet we were not even agreed as to the names of the principal places on our route.

He called Milan Milano, Florence Firenze, Turin Torino, Naples Napoli. For Basel he said Basler and Lucerna for Lucerne (which the Swiss themselves call Luzern, pronouncing the "z" like ts).

Stop a moment, though. When I say he called Florence Firenze, and so on, I am laying myself open to misconception and the charge of insular ignorance. Rather should I put it that we English call Firenze Florence, just as we call Padova Padua and Livorno Leghorn. We cannot even give the Eternal City its proper beautiful name. Instead of Roma we say Rome, which is only a trifle better than the Germans, who deep down in their throats grunt out "Rom."

The Germans are very bad offenders in this matter of miscalculation, for they give them often such cacophonous equivalents as one would never think of connecting with the real name. The first time I went to Italy I let the train leave Bellinzona without me. I was drinking a cup of coffee and it slipped off. I thoroughly enjoyed a sunny September afternoon's ramble amid vineyards and along the shore (so far as I recollect) of an enchanting little lake. Then I went back to the station to catch the evening service to Milan.

Presently a long and important looking train thundered in. On it were boards—"Berlin-Mailand." I regarded them idly, wondering where Mailand was and why I had never heard of it before. It was only when I saw a friendly porter wildly summoning me to enter and heard a guard crying out, "Chinasso, Como, Milano," that I realized the situation and understood Mailand to be German for the city we call Milan. The German for Venice is even more ill sounding—"Venedig." Who would ever associate that harsh trisyllable with the glories and loveliness of the miracle city of the lagoons?—London Mail.

Grim Scot Wit.

A Scottish minister had among his parishioners a man who dealt in old herbs, alternating his spells of labor with heavy sleeps. During the period of depression which followed each overindulgence John habitually took to bed and there diligently studied the family Bible. During one of these fits of attempted reformation his condition prompted his wife to call in the Rev. Mr. Wallace, the parish minister, who at the time happened to be passing.

"Oh, Minister Wallace, come in and see our John; he's real bad!"

"What's wrong wi' him?"

"He's fear to meet his Makker," said Mrs. John.

Quick as fire came the crushing reply:

"Humph! Thell'm he need na be fear for that; he'll never see'm."

the top at 98 degrees C. (208.1 degrees F.) the mountain is a thousand feet high.

In government and other scientific work extremely delicate thermometers are used. They are long, so that the scales may be divided into fractions of a degree. The entire instrument for the work is termed a thermobarometer, or hypsometer. It consists of a small metallic vessel for boiling water, on the inside of which are placed these delicate thermometers. Ganot says that the accuracy of the height of a mountain can be obtained within ten feet by means of these instruments. It is probably not quite that accurate, as the pressure of air does not decrease uniformly as we ascend. Nevertheless it is a good adjunct to the surveyor taking largely variable profiles.

Of course the ordinary instrument for taking heights without actually measuring them is the barometer. This is open to the same objection as the thermometer, for its height depends on the pressure of air, which does not decrease uniformly. However, it can be graduated to an empirical scale to tell the heights and in that case shows accuracy.

Insinuating.

"Yes," boasted Slowpay, "I have bought an automobile now, but I will pay you that $5 I borrowed six years ago."

"Better be careful," responded Binks, with fine sarcasm. "You might be apprehended for speeding."

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. JETTTIE BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

ANOTHER MIRACLE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Thought the Disease was Cancer of the Stomach

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Cured Him

SYDNEY MINES, N. S., JANUARY 25TH 1910

"For many years I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited my food constantly. The agony I endured all these years, I cannot describe and I lost over 25 pounds in weight. I also suffered with Constipation which made the stomach trouble worse. I consulted physicians, as I was afraid the disease was cancer but medicine gave only temporary relief and then the disease was as bad as ever.

I read in the "Maritime Baptist" about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this medicine was making and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has entirely cured me when every other treatment failed, and I reverently say 'Thank God for Fruit-a-tives'!"

EDWIN ORAM, Sr.

"Fruit-a-tives" sweetens the stomach, increases the flow of gastric juice, strengthens the stomach muscles, and insures sound digestion. The wonderful powers of this famous fruit medicine are never more clearly shown than in curing the apparently hopeless cases of Dyspepsia and Constipation. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50; or trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

TOWNSHIP OF RICHMOND.

April 14th, 1910.

The council met at Selby.

The members present were Chas. Anderson, Reeve; and Councillors C. H. Spencer, E. R. Sills, Alf. McCutcheon, and Fred Sexsmith, the Reeve presiding.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from the clerk of Camden re work on the boundary road between Richmond and Camden. Laid over.

On motion the Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the By-law for the appointment of an Inspector for the maintenance of drains. The Reeve in the chair.

The By-law was read the second time, clause by clause.

On motion the blanks were filled in. The blank in clause one was filled in with the name of William Paul. The blank in clause four was filled in with $2.50 per day.

The committee rose and reported the By-law read the second time.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

On motion all rules were suspended in order to give the By-law its third reading.

The By-law was read a third time and numbered 559, signed by the Reeve and Clerk, sealed and finally passed.

Moved by E. R. Sills, and seconded by Alf. McCutcheon, that the Reeve and Councillor Spencer be a committee to examine a ditch on the road in the 6th concession, near Leopold Carscadden's with power to act. Carried.

Moved by E. R. Sills, and seconded by A. McCutcheon, that road section number 83 be abolished, and that Abram and Archie Winters and Hugh and Arthur McKnight be attached to road section number 19, and that the said road section number 19 be extended north between lot 8 in the 5th to the centre of the concession. Carried.

Moved by E. R. Sills, and seconded by Alf. McCutcheon, that William Hudson be appointed Pathmaster in road Division number 3, and that the By-law be amended accordingly. Carried.

Moved by E. R. Sills, and seconded by Alf. McCutcheon, that the following Pathmasters be appointed: William Morris, for division No. 87; F. H. Card, for division No. 88; William Oliver, for division No. 89; and that the By-law appointing Pathmasters be amended accordingly. Carried.

SEVEN STONES IN HERD BUILDING.

1. Milking clean:—to obtain all that a cow can give, and to prevent early drying off.

2. Use of pure blood sire:—from strain of large producers, to acquire good qualities and perpetuate dairy tendencies. Of what value is a scrub?

3. Regular and careful feeding:—as to time, quantity and quality; adjusting the grain ration to the production of milk and butterfat; to get the utmost value for the foodstuff grown or purchased.

4. Providing succulent feed:—as roots, ensilage and soiling crops, to sustain and prolong the flow of milk.

5. Culling out poor cows:—no one wants them either to feed or breed from. Beef them.

6. Good care:—including kind treatment, and everything conducive to comfort, cleanliness and health so as to give the cow an opportunity to work to the best advantage. Better methods, not necessarily much outlay of cash.

7. Keeping records:—all the foregoing naturally hinges on records: a knowledge of each cow's performance and capacity is the prime necessity for increasingly profitable production, a mere estimate may be far astray and gives no basis on which to work intelligently, guess work is not business-like, but a careful record supplies information of the utmost value at every turn. Record form are supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa.

BELL ROCK.

(For last week.)

W. Brooks has been rushing the wood business for the last two weeks.

Work in the cheese factory will be started the first of May.

The news of the accidental death of Michael McKeown near Coe Hill, Hastings, came as a shock to the people here. Deceased was a resident of this place for many years and was highly esteemed as a kind neighbor and good citizen.

Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Yorke, Verona, at W. F. Pomeroy's; Miss Edith Yorke, Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Amey, Moscow, at J. Yorke's; Mr. and Mrs. T. Timmons at J. Timmons.

The village of Poiré-sur-Velluire, in France, is a happy village—it does not know of political troubles, for all its municipal councillors are relatives. The village has 1,176 inhabitants and 358 electors. The mayor, M. Godin, is the uncle of the schoolmaster, as well as the uncle of the schoolmistress' husband, which same husband is also a municipal councillor; the deputy-mayor, M. Guerin, is first cousin of the mayor and of the schoolmaster and of the schoolmistress' husband. Another municipal councillor is first cousin of the mayor, and four others are second and third cousins, whilst the remaining councillor is second cousin and uncle of one of the other councillors.

CATARRH OF HEAD

Which Peruna Relieved in a Short Time.

MISS SUSIE M. KINGSWORTH.

MISS SUSIE M. KINGSWORTH, 166 Quebec St., London, Ontario, writes:

"I began using Peruna last January, when I had such a bad cold, and I could not get anything to help me.

"My nose and head were all stopped up, so that I could hardly get my breath. I thought at times that I would smother, especially at night.

"I have no trouble with that now. The noise in my head has all disappeared.

"I know Peruna will do just what you say it does. I cannot praise Peruna too highly, as it has done so much for me. I hope my letter will reach other sufferers."

Mrs. S. J. Kountz, 1015 Scovel street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"I have had a very bad cough nearly all my life, and I am forty-five years old. I have taken almost every kind of cough medicine that has ever been made, but none did me much good. I would have spells of coughing that I thought I would cough myself to death. I took Peruna, and last winter and this winter I have had no cough and I know that Peruna cured me."

Alaric the Goth.

Alaric, the first of the barbarian kings who entered and sacked the Eternal City and the first enemy who had appeared before its walls since the time of Hannibal, is said to have received as the price of his departure from the city (during the first siege, in A.D. 408) 5,000 pounds weight of gold, 3,000 pounds weight of silver, 3,000 silver robes, 3,000 pieces of scarlet cloth and 4,000 pounds of pepper. In order to furnish a portion of the ransom it became necessary to melt down some of the statues of the ancient gods.

COST OF SHIPPING WARS.

Prices Tumble When Big Lines Enter Into Struggle For Supremacy.

The negotiations between the British and German shipping companies trading to South and East Africa have fortunately been brought to a successful conclusion, consequently there is no possibility of a disastrous rate war between the rivals.

For some years past the Germans have had the trade on the East Coast of Africa almost entirely to themselves, and even the British Government has had to send stores to Mombasa and other ports for the foreign companies.

Such a state of affairs has not fostered British trade, and recently the Union Castle Line determined to extend their sailings right up the East Coast, calling at both Portuguese, German and British ports.

The German companies resented what they regarded as poaching on their preserves and at once announced their intention of carrying goods to South Africa at rates below those charged by the English lines.

Although passengers and traders may receive considerable benefit while a rate war is in progress, such methods of competition are very costly, and in the end the rival shippers usually come to terms and may even raise rates in excess of the old charges.

It may be remembered that in 1904 there was a fierce rate war in the Atlantic, and for several weeks it was possible to travel to Liverpool for only $10. Such a state of affairs could not last, as it was estimated that the British shipping lines alone were losing $150,000 a week, while the Germans lost even more heavily.

Then more recently the Germans made a dead set at the Cunard Co., resulting in a loss to the Hamburg-Amerika line of some $1,500,000 according to the Shipping Gazette. The position of the British company was stronger in the end than at the beginning of the war in spite of heavy losses.

The Germans are never afraid of waging wars against British firms, and it must be confessed that within recent years German shipping has increased by leaps and bounds. In fact the German flag is more in evidence in many Far Eastern ports than is the Red Ensign.

For two years the Hansa Co. of Bremen engaged in a freight war with the P. and O. line to India, which resulted in a reduction of its own dividend and much loss to the famous British company. However, the Germans stated that they had strengthened their position and had secured peace for some time to come. The directors considered a loss of 3 per cent. of their profits was not too much to pay for future possibilities.

Compulsory Buying of Bibles.

The first Bible printed in Scotland was issued in 1579. In the same year, by act of Parliament, every gentleman, householder and others "worth thrie hundrth merkis f yeirlie rent or abone," and every yeoman and burges with $2,500, had to provide, under a penalty of $50, "a Bible and psalme buke in vulgare language in their housis for the better instruction of thame selfis and their fameljis in the knowledge of God."

To see that the provisions of the above act were carried into effect, the following year a searcher was appointed with power to visit the houses of those signified by the act "and to require the sight of their Psalme Buik and Bybills." In a footnote it is added: "The Privy Council had in 1575 commanded and charged 'the principallis and Heidis-men' of every parochin alsweill to Burgh as Landward to contribute and collect $25 for the purchase of a Bible to be placed in every parish kirk."

IS RECOMMENDED

when a person, young or old, through overwork, worry, intense excitement, grief, alcoholic or other excesses, or from other recent or known causes, has overstrained and exhausted the nervous system, and as the result, does not sleep well, wakes up tired, is depressed, tearful, inclined to perspire at the least irritation, has indigestion, lack of appetite, and is, to sum up in a phrase, entirely unstrung. Such conditions are evident to everyone, and are common in every family, and can by early treatment of brief duration by this preparation, with its threefold effect of feeding the nerve tissue, enabling sleep to be obtained and food to be desired and digested, be quickly overcome.

LARGE BOTTLES, $1.50

One bottle, taken three times a day according to directions, affords treatment for about 40 days, all that is usually required for ordinary derangements of the nervous system.

BULL FIGHTERS' WEALTH

FORTUNES MADE BY THE LEADING MATADORS.

Make From $35,000 to $50,000 Annually—They are the Idols of the People.

The opening of a University at Bilbao for the conferring of degrees for bull-fighting (licentiate and doctor of taurumachy) is one of the latest evidences of the popularity of the Spanish national sport. Bull-fighting is a pastime peculiar to such countries as Spain, Mexico, and Portugal, and it is just as much a popular rage as cock-fighting was at one time in England. There is this important difference, however, that in cock-fighting human life was not imperilled, whereas in bull-fighting it is one of the sacrifices often paid in the name of this so-called sport. Just recently several tragedies have occurred in the bull-ring, involving the lives of no fewer than five expert matadors, while others have been almost gored to death. But these are everyday occurrences and are treated in a sportsman-like way by the devotees of the ring.

IDOLS OF THE PEOPLE.

The bull-fighters themselves are regarded much as prize-fighters are in this country, and they are the idols of the lower stratum of the populace, from whose ranks they are drawn. At one time those who were killed in the ring and died without confession were denied burial rites; but in these more humane days a clergyman is in attendance with the consecrated host, in case of accident.

Down to the days of Philip II. the exploits of gentlemen in the bull-ring, their prowess, grace and dexterity, were the pride of the Spanish nobility. Naturally, when, after risking his life repeatedly, the knight killed the bull in masterly style, the audience grew frantic with enthusiasm; especially as, by the rules of the arena, the knight once unhorsed must face the raging animal on foot alone, sword in hand. This last act still forms part of the display of the matador at the present day. With the advent of the Bourbons a change came over the bull-ring. It ceased to be fashionable for the nobles to compete, and the sport was abandoned to paid professionals, who make large fortunes.

MATADORS SOON GROW RICH.

A matador receives about $750 for a bull-fight, besides presents, and, as he fights about seventy times in the year, may make from $35,000 to $50,000 annually. After a successful fight and an artistic death-thrust, the matador is heaped with presents. Ladies in a frenzy of applause and excitement tear their bracelets from their arms, snatch their purses from their pockets and fling gold and jewels into the arena. Once a poor woman, carried away by the excitement of the moment, took off her corsets and threw them at the triumphant matador. On another occasion Sarah Bernhardt took the jewelled pin from her hair and presented it to the matador, who received it with trials, are left to graze in peace in charge of herdsmen till they are four years old, when they are removed to large fields surrounded by palisades, where they remain till, strong, fierce, and full of muscle, they enter the bull-ring. Oxen are introduced into the herd during the night, being received without disfavor by the fiery bulls. These are decoys, trained to accompany them into the town where the bull-fight is to take place. People are warned not to linger on the roads while the bulls are on the "march," and small barricades are erected near the entrances to the streets. The oxen all carry bells, and the drivers are armed with lances, and galloping wildly drive forward the bulls, who rush blindly on until they enter the cells awaiting them. When the bulls are once firmly caged the decoy oxen are trained to slip out by the trap-doors, and the bulls are then left alone till the final moment of combat and death.

GREAT NATIONAL SPORT.

In Madrid the bull-fighting season lasts about eight months of the year—from April to November—and during that time there is at least one Sunday or saint's day afternoon in every week devoted to the sport. The fights take place in a kind of circus, called the Plaza de Toros, round which the seats rise one above the other, like the steps of a stair, with a tier of boxes over them. The Plaza has accommodation for 10,000 to 15,000 people, who pay a high price for admission, and all go attired in their best clothes to witness the spectacle, which, to the novice in bull-fights, is neither edifying nor inspiring.

HOW TO GET THIN.

Don't Mean Starvation, but the Replacing of Certain Foods.

"How to get fat or thin," was told by Dr. George White in a lecture at the Harvard Medical School, Boston, the other day. Among other things he said:

"Some persons you could never make thin unless you could change their character. Ordinarily the supervision of a physician is necessary to prevent mistakes, and for encouragement and discipline.

"It is safe not to lose more than two pounds a week, or twenty pounds in three months. If you have more than this to lose, say fifty pounds, then it is better to bring its loss about intermittently.

"It doesn't mean starvation, or necessarily less food, but a choice of new foods, for instance, replacing of roast beef by chicken, thickened soups by clear soups. Foods may be roughly divided into three classes, strong, medium and light, according to their values.

"The strong foods are olive oil, butternuts, chocolate, cheese, sugar cake, ice cream, roast beef, ham, pork chops, bacon, gravies, cream, candy, puddings, pies, cereals, macaroni, bread, figs and dates.

"Foods of medium fat value are cream, soups, thickened soups, fowl, beef round, veal, eggs, salmon, shad, mackerel, halibut, beans, grapes and bananas.

"The light foods are milk, buttermilk, clear soups, beef tea, broiled chicken, perch, cod, oysters, lob-

POOR MARRY TOO YOUNG

VERY BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS IN ENGLAND.

Marry in 'Teens, Live Few Months in Squalor and Wind Up in Jail or Worse.

Certain conditions which have helped to create the call for a "poor" divorce court in England, are graphically portrayed by a writer in a London (England) daily.

A few days since, as I entered a London police court—surely the saddest place on earth—a young girl was being charged with disorderly conduct in the streets in the early hours of the morning. She seemed to be a mere slip of a child, and, indeed, she gave her age as sixteen. But—and this is the serious fact which should make the most easy-going of people pause and reflect—she described herself, and described herself truly, as a widow.

Upon another occasion, when present at the same police court, I had heard a husband defend himself upon a summons for maintenance. The complainant was his wife, who carried a baby in her arms. But—and here again is the cardinal feature of the situation—the husband was only eighteen, and the wife and mother seventeen years of age.

DISMAL FAILURES.

The story in this case was just the same old story which has always cropped up in these dismal courts. They had married upon a combined capital of seven shillings and sixpence; the bits of rubbish they called furniture had been secured on the hire system by the payment of a shilling on account; the girl-wife knew nothing of the duty of the housekeeper—she could neither cook, nor sew, nor wash, but she could, and did, lie in bed until the afternoon; and the lad, who had apparently married to secure someone who would care for and conduct this most primitive and hopeless or homes, and had quickly discovered his dismal failure, cleared out of the place, and, as a matter of fact, deserted her within three months of the marriage.

THOUSANDS LIKE THESE.

Such a ghastly tale as this is no exception. There are hundreds—nay, there are thousands—of such marriages made every year. There are, to-day, in this great London of ours—this centre, as we say, of the world's civilization—some 14,000 married persons who are under twenty years of age. Nor is it London alone which is to blame. In the great provincial cities and in the huge industrial districts of the Midlands and the North the same evil is spreading. There are in England and Wales alone 83,000 married persons who are under age.

In London, here, we may tolerate or blush for the wives and widows of fifteen and sixteen years, and the 10,000 wives and widows who are under twenty. So, too, with the husbands who embrace matrimony at sixteen and number thousands before they are twenty-one; but what of their influence on the England of to-morrow and of

£1,000 FOR CERTIFICATE.

Durham Man Received Big Reward for Slight Service.

A romance of a marriage certificate, in two acts, concluded at Reckhope, a village in Durham, England, a few days ago.

About twelve months ago Mr. Robert Lightburn, an old resident, received a request from someone living in Australia to hunt up an old marriage certificate. He obtained a certified copy of the entry in the parish register and forwarded it to his correspondent without having the slightest knowledge of his or her identity or the importance of the document.

A few days ago he received a draft on an Australian bank for £1,000, with an intimation that it was intended as an acknowledgment for the trouble he had taken in discovering the marriage certificate of an old friend.

It has transpired that among the emigrants who left Weardale for Australia during the "gold rush" sixty years ago was a young woman who, after arrival at Melbourne, entered the domestic service of a wealthy merchant and eventually became the wife of his son.

But she was married under her nickname, and this fact led to trouble when in after years, a question of succession to the merchant's fortune arose among her children.

It was to prove that the nickname was not her real name that inquiries were instituted in Durham among those who were likely to have remembered her in her youth.

FORTUNE GOES BEGGING.

Over Twelve Million Dollars Await a Claimant.

Search is being made in the north of Ireland for the heirs of a man called Harrison, who left Portadown about a century ago and died in London, after amassing an enormous fortune. This fortune has now increased to £2,500,000, which is lying in the Court of Chancery, awaiting distribution among the next-of-kin who can prove their relationship to the millionaire.

It is stated the male branch of the Harrison heirs is extinct, and among the parties who would benefit are persons from the Portadown district named Gracey, Henry, Liddell and Wilson.

The Rector of Seagoe, the Rev. James E. Archer, D.D., who has studied the historic associations of Portadown and its surroundings, has been communicated with in the matter and has been engaged in making diligent search among the church records and the family archives with the view of furthering the claims of all parties concerned.

It may be mentioned that the Harrison family were landed proprietors, and held a high social position in Portadown.

Inquiries are being made for a Major Robinson, who was born near Portadown, and was conversant with the family history. He would now be about eighty years of age, and before his retirement from the Army had seen twenty-five years' foreign service.

...and their purses from their pockets, and fling gold and jewels into the arena. Once a poor woman, carried away by the excitement of the moment, took off her corsets and threw them at the triumphant matador. On another occasion Sarah Bernhardt took the jewelled pin from her hair and presented it to the matador, who received it with graceful courtesy. These matadors are immensely popular. They are generally rich men, who lounge all the winter and fight all the summer, alternating their feats of skill and courage with love-making and pleasure. Their nerves are naturally of iron, for when these break down their professional days are at an end. Their names are household words, and their portraits, in all the bravery of velvet and gold, silk stockings and gaudy cloaks, fill the photographers' shops, and are gazed at admiringly by gaping crowds. Even fine ladies do not disdain to honor the matador by their favors, and a prosperous, admired, and heroic figure is this descendant of the Roman gladiator, until the day when, wounded or mortally hurt, he falls to the ground or retires from the bull-ring in which he has won all his glory.

A fine bull-fight is an expensive affair, and costs about $5,500 to $6,000, while the largest bull-rings, such as those at Madrid, Seville, and Saragossa, are as spacious as the old Roman amphitheatres. In the City of Mexico some years ago nearly $350,000 was spent in fitting up six rings in which bull-fights were held. It has been computed that about 2,500 bulls and 3,500 horses are killed every year in Spanish bull-fights. From six to ten bulls are usually dispatched in a single day, twenty minutes being about the time taken, as a rule, to slay one; and as some of the animals may be worth from $300 to $350, it will be seen that tauro-machy is a very costly sport.

TRAINING BULLS.

Bulls, like prize fighters, have to undergo a period of training before they are fit for the ring. When a year old the bull is separated from the rest of the herd and branded; then it is turned loose to graze on the wild plains and sniff the aromatic air of the pasturage. When they are two years old their trials begin, the bulls having to prove their mettle on the flowery plains. On the ranch friends muster and sportsmen take the saddle in the early dawn. Skilled herdsman, armed with lances some four yards in length, keep the impetuous bulls together and prevent them from joining their friends in the distance. Then one bull is allowed to escape across the plain, followed by two horsemen, one of whom plants a blood-edged lance on the bull's flank and hurls him over—a performance requiring practice, nerve, and dexterity.

Immediately the bull rises he charges, when the second horseman, armed with a pointed lance, gives him a prick on the shoulder. Those bulls who freely charge twice are considered fit for the ring; some bulls will even charge a third time, but they very rarely do so. The selected bulls are then named and entered in a stud-book, similar to what is done with pedigree horses and cattle in this country.

MOTOR BUSES FOR TURKEY.

Both Motor and Horse-Drawn Vehicles to be Installed.

Another revolution is due to take place in Constantinople in one month, and preparations are being steadily pushed forward in London to effect it at the destined time.

Twenty-one motor omnibuses and fifty-five horse omnibuses will soon be running through many of the streets of that aged city, and the Turks, it is said, are looking forward to the day when they can deftly board an omnibus and career in it to Ortakoy, Chiehili, or some such place.

In the words of Signor Moise Mazza, the mainspring of the enterprise, "We are going to wake Constantinople up."

English people will be glad to know that the omnibuses, which are quite new, are all of English make, for "English omnibuses are the best. They are carefully planned and are light, solid and strong."

"The management, too, will be in the hands of Englishmen," Signor Mazza said, "because they have a better knowledge of the handling of omnibuses than anyone, and there is no other country where there have been so many omnibuses."

CARPENTER IS COUNT.

Story of Young Man is Like That From Novel.

An adventure which has often happened in novels, but seldom in real life, has just befallen a young carpenter of 21 in Paris, France. He was a foundling. He was brought up partly by public charity and partly by a postman's wife, to whose care the child was entrusted by the hospital. His foster parents treated him as their own son, and when he grew up they apprenticed him to a carpenter. The boy was at his lathe one day when a well-dressed man came in and asked for him.

"I am your half-brother," said the stranger. "I will take you to your real mother. Be on such a day at such a railway station," naming a small place near where the boy worked, in the south of France.

The boy kept the appointment and found his half-brother waiting with a carriage. They drove to a chateau in the neighborhood, and there the young man met his mother, whom he had never seen. The chateau is his. A fortune amply sufficient to keep it up is his also. Finally, the title of count belongs also to the carpenter lad. His father, Count de M., died two months ago, having legitimized his son. The young carpenter-count has just been called up to serve his term in the army.

ate or blush for the wives and widows of fifteen and sixteen years, and the 10,000 wives and widows who are under twenty. So, too, with the husbands who embrace matrimony at sixteen and number thousands before they are twenty-one; but what of their influence on the England of to-morrow and of next year and the years to follow?

For, unfortunately, it is just those who are least able to earn a living who marry at the earliest ages. It is among the unskilled laborers that we find the premature husbands; among the thriftless girls the immature wives. The poverty areas exhibit this to demonstration. In Lambeth, for example, there are 200 married couples aged nineteen, 550 aged twenty, and 6,500 aged twenty-one; in Islington, 250 aged nineteen, 670 aged twenty, and 8,000 aged twenty-one; while in Stepney there are 400 aged nineteen, 1,000 aged twenty, and 10,000 aged twenty-one.

What is the result of this linking of the young together in improvident and premature marriage? What other results can we expect to find than that which we do find? In London's work-houses and in London's jails you meet with these child-wives and boy-husbands. In the prisons, indeed, out of a total of 850 persons who are under age, more than 200 are married.

WEDDED FOR SHORT TERM.

Not only in the prisons and work-houses do they expiate their unhappy folly—though at the latest inquiry it was found that all the husbands of sixteen were either in a hospital or jail! But they separate as readily as they came together, and with less ceremony. Of the London husbands who are under age, more than 2,000 are not living with their wives. Work at a distance may be responsible for a percentage of these; but crime and poverty can claim the great majority. And both husbands and wives separate to form other alliances.

Nor, as I have already said, in London alone does this social error prevail. In Lancashire and Cheshire there are 10,000 married persons under age, in Yorkshire 8,000, in the Midlands 7,500. In fact, the provinces prove on analysis to be more reckless even than London.

IS THERE NO HOPE?

What can be done to stem this social disease—contracted in improvidence and ignorance, developed in prisons, workhouses and hospitals, and penetrating with a cancerous growth throughout the poorer classes of the country? Social reformers bewail it; doctors point with warning fingers to the new generation such marriages will produce; and patriots fling up their hands in despair at the prospect.

Until this problem is seriously assailed, we must admit that we are in this as in some other respects, a nation diseased.

Is it not possible to take a leaf out of the book of our continental neighbors, and impose some legislative restriction on those marriages, which, if they do not spell race suicide, at least ensure racial decay?

The more serious a man is the more he knows the value of a smile.

near Portdown, and was conversant with the family history. He would now be about eighty years of age, and before his retirement from the Army had seen twenty-five years' foreign service.

NOT ORDINARY EGGS.

One Cost $10,000—Another Contained Wedding Trousseau.

A pretty story about an Easter egg relates to one in the Museum at Berlin. The story runs that a great Prince was affianced to a lovely Princess and promised to send her an Easter gift by which she could in some degree measure his love. He sent an iron egg.

So angry was she that she threw it upon the floor, when the unlovely shell opened, disclosing a silver lining. Picking up the despoiled token the Princess discovered a secret spring which on being touched revealed a golden yolk. This held yet another spring, which revealed a crown of rubies. In the ruby crown was yet another spring, disclosing a diamond betrothal ring from the romantic Prince.

But London scores when it comes to the costliness, magnificence and ingenuity of the Easter egg, says the Lady's Pictorial, for it supplied one to hold the trousseau of a South African millionaire's bride. The shell was of chocolate and besides the trousseau it contained masses of sweets.

Some twenty or thirty years ago a great English lady presented the Pope with an Easter egg which had cost her over $2,000. Its shell was of ivory lined with white satin, the yolk was of gold, and within the yolk was a great ruby set with diamonds.

Not so valuable, yet more ingenious, was an easter egg manufactured as a gift to an Infanta of Spain. Its shell was of white enamel; within this was engraved the Gospel Lesson for Easter Day, and the whole inclosed a cage containing a marvellous mechanical bird which sang twelve airs from operas.

THE FOLLY OF OUR WAYS.

Like men who move with sightless eyes.

We stumble through our days,
And leave our souls to emphasize
The folly of our ways.

Time and again the drunkard's lips
Indulge their low desire,
And all the time he slips and slips
Into a hopeless mire.

Time and again the spendthrift's lips
Hands

Are busy wasting all;
While surely move the shifting sands
That bear him to his fall.

Time and again the gambler takes
The risks of reckless play;
While in his heart the canker makes
Its all-destroying way.

Time and again we give to those
We love the words that pain;
While through the mill our consciences goes
Till we are friends again.

Some day, perhaps—it may not be
Till in our twilight days,
Too late to alter—we shall see
The folly of our ways.

LAW IN THE WILDERNESS

IN HANDS OF A FEW MEN IN THE NORTH-WEST.

The Royal Mounted Police Rule Absolutely in the Border Country.

An officer of the Mounted Police is not an exponent of the law; he is the law itself, says Agnes Deans Cameron in "The Century." When he rides his cayuse to foothill camp or threads on snowshoes the worn north trails of the trapper he goes clad with the authority of courts. He preserves order, but he also makes arrests; he tries offenders in his own courts, and then escorts the man upon whom sentence has fallen to a prison of his own making, where the lawbreaker may be incarcerated for ten days or thirty years. Back of that slight, silent, steel nerved rider is the strong arm of England and the whole of Canadian jurisprudence, and when he speaks it is as one with authority. In extreme cases, when the death penalty has to be enforced, one mounted policeman may have to act as clergyman, executioner and coroner.

MUST TAKE THE OATH.

"All this I swear without any mental evasion, equivocation or secret reservation. So help me God!" With these impressive words do raw recruit and grizzled soldier enter the service of the mounted police and swear fidelity to his Majesty Edward VII. It is not prospective wealth that tempts a man to become an empire-builder in this mounted force of greater Canada, "for hard is her service, poor her payment."

The newly recruited constable gets 60 cents a day; his term of engagement is five years, and he may look forward to re-engagement on a second term, with a staff sergeant's pay of from $1 to $1.50 a day to work up to. Recruits must be between the ages of 22 and 40, active men of thoroughly sound constitution and possessed of certificates of exemplary character. They must be able to read and write in either English or French, understand horses, ride well, measure up to the minimum height of 5 feet 8 inches, have a chest measurement of 35 inches, weigh not over 175 pounds and be unincumbered with a wife.

ALL SORTS AND CONDITIONS.

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police force of Canada is a combination of all sorts and conditions of men blown together by the round-up of the winds of heaven. In the ranks we find western bronco buster, eastern log birler, lumber jacks, unspirited cockneys, Cree-Scot half-breeds, time-expired men from every branch of the Imperial service, side by side with the French-Canadian born "tree days below Kebek." For two years the roll-call of one troop included in its rank and file a son of a colonial governor, a grandson of a major-general, a medical student from Dublin, an Oxford master of arts, two troopers of the Imperial forces and half a dozen ubiquitous Scots. For many years a son of Charles Dickens did honorable service with this force, and there served beside

AN ARMY PAGEANT.

Series of Scenes From Early Times to be Depicted.

The popularity of pageants continues in England. The programme has just been completed for the army pageant, which will be held from June 20 to July 2 under the direction of F. B. Benson, the well-known Shakespearean actor, in the grounds of Fulham Palace, the Bishop of London's residence.

First there is to be a series of scenes portraying the war-like life of the inhabitants of ancient Britain. Following this there will be a scene representing the Roman invasion, and then will come ten historic episodes between 510 and 1612 A. D.

The next part will have the title "Stories of the Regiments in Famous Fights." The Battle of Dettingen (June 27, 1743) was the last fight at which a British sovereign was present in person, and in the pageant George II. will be a prominent figure. A leading incident to be portrayed is the gallant fight by Trooper Brown for the standard of the Third Hussars. Dropped by a wounded cornet the flag was picked up by Brown, and in turn taken possession of by a Frenchman. Brown rode off in pursuit, killed the gendarme and recaptured the standard, receiving numerous wounds during the encounter.

Sir John Moore's death on the sands of Corunna will form another episode. Still another spectacle will be the storming of Badajoz, when Lieut. Macpherson tore down the French tricolor from the topmost tower of the fortress and replaced it with his own red jacket in lieu of the Union Jack as a signal that the place was won.

ASKING FOOD FROM SANTA.

Pathetic Story Told in London Coroner's Court.

"The child was standing on the fender, in front of a small fire, asking Father Christmas to send down some food, as he was starving."

"Yes, he was asking Father Christmas for some bread and sugar and dates."

This was the pathetic dialogue between a coroner's officer and the mother of little four-year-old Edward Brewer who was burned to death at his home in London, England.

The case has some most pitiful features. Mrs. Brewer, the mother of the child, said at the inquest that her husband—a motor car driver—had deserted her eighteen months before, leaving her without any means of support.

She had had to depend on her mother and brother to pay her rent and supply her from time to time with food. She had just gone over to her mother's house to get some bread for the little boy when a neighbor's son ran in to say that he had fallen in the fire and been badly burned.

Rushing home she found her oldest son, Sidney, six years old, endeavoring to beat out the flames that were enveloping his little brother. When the flames were put out a little boy was found to have received fatal injuries.

After the jury had returned a verdict of accidental death Mrs. Elizabeth Holling, mother of Mrs. Brewer, said she wished to thank

TO KEEP ALWAYS YOUNG

POPULAR DOCTOR GIVES SOME GOOD ADVICE.

How You May Keep Evergreen and Enjoy Life Up to a Good Old Age.

Some people keep young to middle-age and long after. They don't grow grey till long after numbers of people their own age, or, if they do, their grey hairs become them so well that you wouldn't like to think of them anyhow else. "Where do wrinkles and grey hairs come from?" "How can they be avoided?" Here are several answers to these questions from many points of view.

"If you want to keep evergreen," says a popular doctor, "don't take things too seriously. A sense of humor is a splendid thing. Making mountains out of molehills ages one almost quicker than anything. People who take things too much to heart grow old before their time. Don't meet trouble half way. Don't worry. The small boy who said that wrinkles were 'fretwork' wasn't far wrong. Take life easily. Cultivate a cheerful frame of mind. It is the people who look on the bright side of things who keep evergreen."

DON'T WORK TOO HARD.

Overwork ages many people. Industry's a fine thing, but a virtue may easily run to seed and become a fault. No human being was ever meant to work on and on without a rest. Many doctors insist that everyone should, whenever possible, take a nap in the afternoon. And don't work too fast. Don't rush. Take things quietly and steadily. Don't excite yourself over every little trifle. Don't be restless and impatient.

It is the mean and petty traits of character very often that bring lines and wrinkles to the most open face—the small spites, the petty jealousies. They have a knack of steadily and surely eating up all that is sound and wholesome in the character. And as moral ills react physically, premature age comes on with all its undesirable signs. Keep your temper under control. A burst of passion often does one incalculable harm. It jars the nerves and upsets all the whole constitution. Very hysterical people are frequently quite prostrate for days after a burst of temper.

Wrinkles are often caused by facial contortions—mannerisms like constantly lifting the eyebrows when talking, frowning when in thought, twisting the mouth up, and that sort of thing. Try to cultivate the reposeful face. It need not be wooden or expressionless. Not a bit of it. But talk with your mouth, not with every muscle of your face.

TO KEEP EVERGREEN.

A lady writer thus expresses herself in verse:

Cease to fuss—which is the worst—
Inventing storms which never burst.

Second, all backbiting shun,
Which puckers lips and ages one.

No scornful sneers,
Nor bitter jeers.

DISCIPLINE IN THE NAVY

NAUGHTY JACK AND HIS MANY PUNISHMENTS.

Form Most Used Is "10A"—"Feeding the Baby" Is the Most Trying.

Since the bad old days of long ago the power invested in commanding officers to punish seamen offending against naval laws has been considerably curtailed. Jack used to be punished in the most brutal manner if he dared to disobey.

A common way of punishment in those days was to make a "spread eagle" of a man by lashing him up in the mizzen rigging with his legs and arms extended in the form of an X, and flogging him on the bare back with the end of the "top gallant," or "royal brace." Sometimes the "spread eagle" was "pickled"—i.e., buckets of salt water were thrown over his bruised and bleeding back, and he was marched up and down on the main deck in the blazing hot sun.

Such measures of discipline would not be tolerated in the British Navy to-day. But, while the various "pains and penalties" on board are quite as numerous, the modern officer is more humane, and resorts to ridicule rather than brutality to make a refractory tar obey orders.

STOPPING JACK'S GROG.

Only the other day an officers' steward was charged before a naval Court-martial at Chatham for misappropriation. He was found guilty, and the Court sentenced him to be confined in a cell, or behind a canvas screen, for fourteen days, kept on low diet during the last three days, and then dismissed the service.

This extraordinary sentence is but typical of some very strange methods of punishing Jack. Perhaps the form most used in the service is one termed "10 A." This includes extra work during the dinner hour, eating meals under supervision of a marine sentry, no smoking, and, what is perhaps the cruellest blow of all to Jack, stoppage of grog! The limit for "10 A" is fourteen days—and it is generally awarded for minor offences, such as neglect of duty, inattention at drill, or slackness in obeying orders.

WHISTLING FORBIDDEN.

For boys and youngsters under eighteen caning is still in vogue, and the sight of a boy receiving twelve cuts from a cane, at half-past seven on a cold morning, is sufficient to deter the other youngsters from doing wrong, for the time being at any rate.

Frequently, however, when Jack is naughty, he is sentenced to forms of punishment not found in the King's Regulations. One of the most ludicrous is known as "feeding the baby." This requires two buckets, one filled with water and the other quite empty. The water has to be ladled with a small spoon from one bucket to the other, without spilling any on deck. When the ship is rolling this wants doing, and it is awful backbreaking work on account of the stooping position. It is an everyday occurrence to rank and file a son of a colonial governor, a grandson of a major-general, a medical student from Dublin, an Oxford master of arts, two troopers of the Imperial forces and half a dozen ubiquitous Scots. For many years a son of Charles Dickens did honorable service with this force, and there served beside him a runaway circus clown and the brother of a Yorkshire baronet. Several of the full privates have tucked away in the bottom of their mess kit medals won in South Africa, Egypt and Afghanistan, but the lost legion of gentlemen rankers predominates, and it is Rugby and Cambridge out here on the unbroken prairies that set the fashion in mufti and manners.

CAN'T BE BLUFFED.

A compelling factor making for dignity and decency in a border country as big as Europe is this little band of red coated riders, scarcely a thousand in number, spurring singly across the plains with sealed orders and turning up just when most wanted.

The beat of the mounted policeman is from Hudson Bay to the Pacific and from the forty-ninth parallel to the frozen Arctic, and he does not take tips or sleep on duty. You cannot bluff him, you cannot bulldoze him, and it is not exactly safe to try to "square" him. Of this man, as of Lord "Bobs," we may say: "I don't advertise," it is the boast of the service in Canada that they seldom "get into print." Yet it is strikingly true that on the margin of every page of the unwritten history of this great, lone land the figure of this solitary horseman is vignetted.

ELECTRIC CURFEW.

As the Clock Strikes Eight All the Town's Lights Go Out.

The Corporation of Durban, South Africa, has revived the curfew in a modern form.

Instead of ringing a bell as a warning to citizens to extinguish all lights, an official at the corporation's electric works, punctually on the stroke of 8 o'clock every night, momentarily switches off all lights himself.

For a second or two the town is plunged in darkness, and the object of the idea is to give everyone a chance setting watches and clocks to the correct time. The inhabitants appreciate the innovation highly.

UNCONSCIOUS CHRISTIANS.

A Vast Respect for Christianity in London Slums.

The Bishop of London has an intimate knowledge of East-end life. Peculiar interest, therefore, attaches to a statement which he made recently in addressing 3,000 people in the Paragon Music Hall, Mile End Road. He declared that there is a vast amount of unconscious Christianity in that part of London among people who never went to church. There was a respect for Christianity there greater than almost anywhere else he knew, and he had never heard a disrespectful word uttered against Christ himself, except by the Secularist lecturers.

deavoring to beat the names that were enveloping his little brother. When the flames were put out the little boy was found to have received fatal injuries.

"After the jury had returned a verdict of accidental death Mrs. Elizabeth Holling, mother of Mrs. Brewer, said she wished to thank Corstable Daniels and Sergeant Robinson for their kindness to her daughter.

"When they got there," she said, "there was not a morsel of food in the house, and they gave her, is, and a loaf. It was most generous of them, and I thank them from the bottom of my heart."

CROPS IN CEYLON.

Tea Production More Than 190,000,000 Pounds Last Year.

The report of the committee of the Planters' Association of Ceylon, just issued, gives interesting statements of crops for 1909 and estimates for 1910.

The tea production was more than 190,000,000 pounds, about 12,000,000 more than the last previous year's and about 3,000,000 pounds less than is expected this year. Three thousand acres were opened and planted with tea in 1909. Tea sold in 1909 for two cents a pound more than in 1908.

Shipments of rubber during 1909 amounted to 1,492,550 pounds, and the crop for 1910 is estimated at 3,000,000 pounds. Record prices were obtained for rubber, the highest being 9s. 3³/₄d. in London, and Rs. 7.20 in Colombo.

The cacao crop for 1909 is 80,100 hundred weight. The estimate for 1910 is 700,000 hundred weight.

Cardamoms, which have been extensively advertised in the United States of America, which is now Ceylon's fourth largest customer as regards this product, fetched good prices, and 750,000 pounds were sold. For this year 650,000 pounds are estimated.

Cocoonat palm products (oil, copra, poonac, coir, etc.) have also done remarkably well.

TAKING ENGLISH CENSUS.

Work is Done by Regular Public Officials, Costs Nothing.

In England a census is taken every seven years. In the United States the work costs some $5,000,000; in England with a population of 42,000,000, the work is done by the regular public officials, without extra cost. There the census is taken on a certain day at a certain hour, usually Saturday at 11 p.m., because most people are then at home. Printed circulars have been sent by the police to every family and to the owners of all lodgings and hotels. These circulars contain blanks, which must be filled.

The police round up passers in the streets. Sometimes a cranky Englishman, who, for reasons of his own, does not want to figure in the census, tries to evade the Government by riding around all night in a cab. Ten chances to one he will not succeed in his purpose.

Cabs are stopped as unhesitatingly as are street cars or pedestrians. The Government wants to know. The Government will not be denied. The work is done simultaneously throughout the United Kingdom.

Useless to fuss—which is the worst—Inventing storms which never burst.

Second, all backbiting shun, Which puckers lips and ages one.

No scornful sneers, Nor bitter jeers.

Frowns soon set fast, And then they last.

Even bitter thoughts, indulged at will,

Depress the mouth with cunning skill.

Be sweet and merry, always gay, And wrinkles will not come your way.

If you want to keep young, don't try to keep up an appearance beyond your means. The continued strain and worry soon do their work. An inactive, aimless life, on the other hand, rich, heavy diet, al. bring wrinkles and grey hairs. Be open-hearted. The oldest people at heart—whatever their years—are those who go about with a suspicious feeling that every laugh or joke is against them, and that every little kindness, however well meant, is actuated by some secret motive. Over-secretive people, too, often turn grey early in life.

TRAVELLING ARMY KITCHEN.

Soldiers May Now Have Hot Rations—Cook for 800 Men.

Cold tinned meat for troops in warfare will soon disappear from the list of the hardships of active service. The use of the motor vehicle and the invention of a means of cooking tinned or fresh meat while moving rapidly have received the approval of the authorities. An Irish quartermaster has invented a travelling kitchen, fixed in an ordinary wagon, which can cook for 800 men as it moves with them, and at the first halt in a forced march a hot meal can be served at once. By the application of motor power, the radius of these travelling stoves can be increased enormously in dealing with scattered troops, and it should be possible for men in the most lonely outpost situations to be served with hot food instead of eating the cold rations which they carry with them. These kitchens are so balanced that they keep upright when passing over the roughest ground without spilling or risk of turning over. The field kitchen is an oil fuel one, without spark or smoke.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

A great love cures many lusts. Worry is either too late or too soon.

You cannot lift where you do not love.

Sympathy may speak best in silence.

No man is so small he cannot be great in mercy.

Strength is largely a matter of discovering allies.

Many a thorn lies hidden in a bunch of soft words.

Influence is our shadow falling often far beyond our reach.

No man is right with God who is askew with his fellows.

The way to get even with your detractors is to disappoint them. For the understanding of others the heart is the best philosopher.

buckets, one mixed with water and the other quite empty. The water has to be laded with a small spoon from one bucket to the other, without spilling any on deck. When the ship is rolling this wants doing, and it is awful backbreaking work on account of the stooping position.

It is an everyday occurrence to see a defaulter walking slowly backwards and forwards along the deck, nursing in his arms a 6 inch projectile, weighing perhaps a little over 100 pounds. After a quarter of an hour or so of this parading the unhappy victim aches from head to foot.

Woe betide the man who dares to whistle in a forbidden part of the ship. Offenders have frequently been sentenced to whistle their loud st under the eagle eye of the commander, until poor Jack's lips become so parched and cracked that he could not produce another note.

An apparently simple punishment is to be ordered to stand on the deck, facing the paintwork with hammock on shoulder. Yet this punishment is not so trivial as it appears. The hammock is not heavy, it is true, but after an hour or so it drags on one's shoulders like lead. Besides, it is far from pleasant to stare fixedly at a square foot of grey-painted woodwork for a long period. Jack would much prefer to do a few days' "10 A," or have his leave "jambled."

WHEN JACK GETS THE BELT.

Spitting on board is one of the most heinous offences. Tubs are placed at intervals along the deck for spittoons, and the sailor who ignores their presence and expectorates about the spotless deck better look out. On some vessels a wide belt is kept, and the man who departs from regulations is compelled to wear this on his person. To retrieve his character, however, he is permitted to walk the deck with the other men, and should he spot a sailor committing a like offence, he at once presents him with the hated belt, and the new victim has to undergo a similar ordeal.

Some officers, however, adopt more drastic measures. If Jack is detected expectorating anywhere but in the receptacles provided, a "spit-kit" is strapped to his chest, and any man who cares to do so may make use of his curious walking spittoon. As may be supposed, this humiliating punishment effectively prevents the men from violating regulations.

KING'S REVENUE GROWS.

Good Management Has Improved Duchy of Lancaster.

Before King Edward left London for Biarritz he learned that his revenue as Duke of Lancaster, the title under which he is staying in Biarritz, was increased last year by $5,000, bringing it up to $320,000 for the year. The result has not been attained without a good deal of thrift, but King Edward has the capacity of choosing excellent managers for his private affairs, and the result is the Duchy of Lancaster is proving one of the most profitable of his estates.

The Prince of Wales also finds himself richer this year than last from the revenue of his Cornwall duchy, which has been raised from $412,500 to $435,000.

EXODUS TO THE DOMINION

Efforts to Be Made by the United States to Stem the Tide.

A despatch from Washington says: More than 12,000 American citizens with from $1,000 to $5,000 each, practically all farmers and heads of families, expatriated themselves between March 31, 1909, and March 1, 1910. They went from all portions of the country, but particularly from the Middle West, to take up Government homesteads in Canada. The full number of persons who went from the United States to Canada in this period was 95,378.

These figures were compiled as the result of an investigation which has just been completed by Commissioner-General of Immigration Reilly. The figures and information which have been gathered by the Commissioner-General have surprised him, and the influx of American farmers into Canada will be called to President Taft's attention, and efforts may be made to stem the tide.

The information discloses the fact that the best type of farmers of the Middle West were the ones who were selling out in this country and taking their money to Canada there to take up fertile Government lands.

The Bureau of Immigration estimates that the amount of money taken from this country by the 95,378 persons who left this country to make their future home under the British flag averaged $1,600 to a man, this being, it is said, a conservative estimate. In the period from March 31, 1909, to March 1, 1910, the sum of $95,370,000 was taken into Canada. The investigation also disclosed that since March 31, 1897, down to March 1, 1909, 425,460 persons left the United States permanently to reside in Canada. If they took with them the same average amount as those who left between March 31, 1909, and March 1, 1910, they took $425,461,000.

In all cases the emigrants have taken into Canada $520,830,000 since 1897, practically all in gold.

Of the 95,378 persons who left in the last year, 57,576 were American born and 37,794 were aliens who had come to the United States to reside here permanently, but changed their minds.

The Middle West contributed the bulk of American farmers who have sold out their land and belongings and taken up permanent homes in Canada. In the last year North Dakota has lost 3,461 heads of families; Minnesota, 1,741; South Dakota, 522; Michigan, 514; Washington, 510; Wisconsin, 477; Iowa, 430; Illinois, 296; Montana, 184, and varying numbers from every State in the Union, New York contributing 150.

According to figures given out at the bureau on Tuesday, in January, February and March of this year, 244,967 immigrants arrived in this country from all parts of the world, with an average of about $50 each in their possession.

HIRING DOCKHANDS.

C. P. R. May Have Trouble at Fort William.

A despatch from Fort William says: Serious trouble between the C. P. R. and its dock hands is feared here as soon as navigation is formally opened. The company has been engaging its men through a agency instead of by direct application, as heretofore, but many of the old hands were refused by the agent. About 120 men were engaged on Thursday, nearly all of whom are Irish-speaking, and many are coming in from outside points. It is inferred that there is an "Indian list" and the majority of the Greek and Italians are thought to be upon it. All the men will receive the scale fixed by the Board of Arbitration last year—namely, truckers, 19½ cents per hour for day work and 23½ cents per hour for nights and Sundays; dockers, 23 cents per hour, day; stevedores, 21½ cents per hour, day; stevedomen, 24½ cents per hour, day; 26 cents per hour nights and Sundays.

New Accidental Discovery Gives Startling Results—Puts Flesh on Thin People and Rounds Out Imperfect Figures.

Simple Prescription Given.

For women—and men too, for that matter—who can never appear stylish with anything they wear, because of abnormal thinness and angularity, this remarkable prescription is destined to solve the problem. As a beauty maker for the figure it is simply wonderful while it adds brightness to the eyes, and color to the cheeks and lips. It requires no particular dieting, but acts as an aid to nature by its peculiar action on the nerves and blood supply. The blood and nerves distribute over the body all the nourishment or flesh building elements obtained from the food. The trouble with thin people has always been that they do not absorb or retain enough of the fleshy matter to make them gain in weight even to a normal extent; but this new discovery of blending certain harmless drugs is a revelation to science, and hundreds have gained from ten to forty pounds in a few weeks. There is no danger of becoming too fat. When you get the right weight then stop using.

The general health and strength is greatly improved in anyone from About 120 men were engaged on Thursday, nearly all of whom are English-speaking, and many are coming in from outside points. It is inferred that there is an "Indian list" and the majority of the Greek and Italians are thought to be upon it. All the men will receive the scale fixed by the Board of Arbitration last year—namely, truckers, 19½ cents per hour for day work and 23½ cents per hour for nights and Sundays; checkers, 23 cents per hour, day; stowers, 21½ cents per hour, day; shovelmen, 24½ cents per hour, day; 26 cents per hour nights and Sundays.

A THIRTY NEWSBOY.

Wonderful Story of a Little Roumanian Lad.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The story of the remarkable thrift of a little foreign lad, aged fourteen, was revealed when he applied to the Superintendent of Neglected Children for a newsboy's license. It appears that he came out here from Roumania two years ago, unable to speak a word of English, and since that time has succeeded in mastering the language to a certain extent, has attended school and has not only supported himself, but has sent ten dollars per month to his widowed mother in Roumania to assist her in support of the little family. Besides this he has saved thirty-five dollars towards the one hundred dollars required to pay her passage to this country. All this he has accomplished by selling newspapers.

HOW THIN FOLKS CAN GET FLESHY

New Accidental Discovery Gives Startling Results—Puts Flesh on Thin People and Rounds Out Imperfect Figures.

Simple Prescription Given.

For women—and men too, for that matter—who can never appear stylish with anything they wear, because of abnormal thinness and angularity, this remarkable prescription is destined to solve the problem. As a beauty maker for the figure it is simply wonderful while it adds brightness to the eyes, and color to the cheeks and lips. It requires no particular dieting, but acts as an aid to nature by its peculiar action on the nerves and blood supply. The blood and nerves distribute over the body, all the nourishment or flesh building elements obtained from the food. The trouble with thin people has always been that they do not absorb or retain enough of the fleshy matter to make them gain in weight even to a normal extent; but this new discovery of blending certain harmless drugs is a revelation to science, and hundreds have gained from ten to forty pounds in a few weeks. There is no danger of becoming too fat. When you get the right weight then stop using.

The general health and strength is greatly improved in anyone from the age of sixteen to sixty. Women soon get plump, with well rounded arms and full bust, and men become straight, strong-looking and healthy.

In a half pint bottle get three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Take a teaspoonful before and after meals, and weigh before beginning.

FOR THE PUBLIC

New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds
Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours.

Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsillitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whiskey, is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poison in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieving the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less, according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

ELEVEN WERE KILLED.

In Yards of National Railway of Mexico.

A despatch from Monterey, Mexico, says: An antiquated locomotive exploded in the yards of the National Railway of Mexico here early on Saturday, instantly killing eleven employees of the road. Two others were horribly injured, but it is expected they will recover. The dead are all Mexicans, except the engineer, G. S. Monaghan.

THREE-YEAR-OLD KILLED.

Little Girl Playing on the Railway at Kalmar Struck by Train.

A despatch from Kenora says: On Thursday morning the three-year-old daughter of F. Czartowski, section foreman at Kalmar, twenty-three miles west of here, was instantly killed by the second section of train No. 96 the engineer in charge not noticing the child, who was playing on the track, until too late. The child, whose skull was fractured, had escaped from the house a few minutes before the accident occurred.

THREE YEARS IN PRISON.

For Man Who Victimized Investors in Mining Stocks.

A despatch from Chicago says: William S. Phillips, President of the American-Mexico Mining & Development Company, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment and assessed a fine of $1,000 by Judge Landis in the United States District Court here on Thursday. He sold $600,000 worth of stock in the mining company and paid large unearned dividends out of money received from purchasers of the stock. His victims are said to have lost an aggregate of $300,000.

TWENTY MEN WERE BURIED

Shocking Accident on Ha Ha Bay Railway Near Alphonse, Quebec.

A despatch from Quebec says: News was received Thursday evening from St. Alphonse, Saguenay County, of a terrible accident which occurred on Thursday afternoon about five o'clock, on the line of the Ha-Ha Bay Railway, about three miles from St. Alphonse. It appears that while blasting in an earth dump, the man working the battery did not give the workmen sufficient time to get out of the way. The mine exploded with terrific force, burying some twenty men under a huge pile of earth and rock. Up to a late hour ten men had been taken out, two of them dead and three seriously injured. The work of rescue is being pushed with much vigor.

The chief engineer, Mr. Ladistis Gagne, had just arrived on the spot when the explosion occurred, and he is buried in the debris. It is impossible to get the names of the men killed and injured, or those buried at the present writing, but it is said there were only nine French-Canadians working in the gang at the time of the explosion, the remainder of the men being foreigners.

FOUR AERONAUTS KILLED.

Their Balloon Fell in a Thunder Storm.

A despatch from Bitterfeld, Prussia-Saxony, says: The balloon Delisch, which ascended here on Saturday evening, fell to the earth near the village of Reichenachsen, about twenty miles northwest of Eisenach, in a thunderstorm. The crew, consisting of four men, were killed. The balloon passed over Eisenach at midnight and soon drifted into a thunderstorm. It is assumed that it was struck by lightning and that the gas exploded. The envelope was in tatters when found and the car wrecked.

A CANADIAN'S CRIME.

Bert Hunter Shot Landlord and Wife in England.

A despatch from London, England, says: Bert Hunter, said to be a Canadian horse dealer, shot a landlord named Charles Schofield and the latter's wife at Stoke Newington on Saturday night and afterwards committed suicide. Schofield is dead and his wife is badly wounded. It is stated that Hunter was the owner of land in Alberta, where his wife is now staying. An unlucky speculation with a legacy turned his head, and he declared Schofield was the cause of his ruin. Before taking his own life Hunter left a letter for the Coroner.

LOCKOUT STARTS IN BERLIN.

400,000 Workmen in Building Trades Affected.

A despatch from Berlin, Germany, says: The general lockout of building trade workmen, which was brought about by the failure of the employers and workmen to agree upon terms, began at midnight on Friday night. It will affect four hundred thousand workmen, and the daily loss of wages will be 7,200,000 marks ($1,050,000). It is stated that the men have a reserve fund of 11,000,000 marks and that the unions will not touch the strike pay until the lockout has lasted at least a fortnight. The men are opposed by the Employers' League, which numbers 22,000 firms.

SAVES all MIDDLEMEN'S PROFITS

The "Dominion Pride" Range

MADE IN CANADA and is placed on the market in response to a demand for a Range combining the sterling qualities of Malleable Iron and Polished Steel, Unbreakable, Unwarpable, Indestructible, Economical, Design Attractive, Perfect Cookers and Bakers, will last a Lifetime with Proper Care. The ordinary cast iron range is at best a disappointing investment to the purchaser, so soon does it exhibit the effects of wear and tear, unavoidable in a range constructed of such frail and brittle material. The Combined Malleable Iron and Blue Polished Steel Range is the nearest approach to Absolute Perfection ever designed for Comfort, Economy and Satisfactory Domestic Service and wherever installed it will prove itself a continual object of Satisfaction. The price at which it is supplied is so modest that it is brought easily within the reach of every prudent family.

GUARANTEE

"Dominion Pride" Ranges are sold on the following Guarantee: If any casting proves defective in twelve months from date of purchase, we will furnish same free of charge. The above Guarantee is very broad, no ifs or ands, and any casting that would have a flaw in it that we failed to see in the course of construction, such flaw would show long before the twelve months have transpired when fire is put on range.

INCOMPARABLE OFFER

Our placing direct to the consumer our High Grade "Dominion Pride" Malleable and Polished Steel Range, as fully described in our descriptive circular and guaranteed, for less than you can buy a cast iron range. We are enabled to make this extraordinary offer by our Direct from Factory to Kitchen Plan, which saves the jobbers, retailers, traveling salesman and their expenses, giving the consumer the benefit of these savings, which in reality enables the consumer to buy as cheap as the wholesale jobber.

PRICE

Why not buy direct from the Manufacturer and save the middlemen's and retailers' profits? "Dominion Pride" Range if sold through the retailer or traveling salesman would have to be sold for $69.00 to $78.00, according to the territory sold in. Our price, direct to the consumer, is as follows: "Dominion Pride" Range, 8-18 or 9-18 top, with high chest shelf and elevated tank or flush reservoir, with piece of zinc to go underneath range, 8 joints of blue polished steel pipe and 2 elbows, delivered to any railway express station in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island for $41.00 (We Pay the Freight), and delivered to any railway express station in Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia for $49.00 (We Pay the Freight), $5.00 to accompany order, the balance to be paid when range is delivered to you. If not convenient to pay cash, will accept your Note.

OBITUARIES.

CAPT. ALFRED F. HOLMES

passed away suddenly on Thursday evening of last week. He suffered a stroke of paralysis early in the winter and recovered and on Thursday at noon he had a second stroke from which he never rallied. Deceased was one of the most widely known residents of Napanee, having been for years an immigration officer of the Dominion government and an active Conservative politician. During the past few years he has been the eastern representative of E. W. Gillet and Co. and had a high reputation among the travelling fraternity and business. Deceased was aged 69 years and 8 months and leaves besides his sorrowing widow, one son, Mr. Alfred Holmes of the Northern Crown Bank, and one daughter, Miss Freda Holmes. Mrs. J. W. Robinson, Mrs. Dr. Ward, and Miss Nellie Herring are step-daughters, and Mr. Jack Herring, of New York is a step-son. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon in St. Mary Magdalene Church.

ROBERT THOMPSON.

By the death of Mr. Robert Thompson, Napanee loses one of its most influential and highly esteemed citizens. His demise occurred early in the afternoon of Monday, the 18th of this month. The sad event was not entirely unexpected, as Mr. Thompson has been suffering from an attack of typhoid fever against which his constitution was unable to make a successful stand. The members of Napanee Lodge No. 80 and Argyll Lodge No. 212, I. O. O. F. will attend divine service in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning, Rev. J. R. Conn will conduct the service. The members will meet in Argyll Lodge rooms at 10.10 o'clock and march to the church. The subject of Mr. Conn's sermon will be "The Reconstruction of Life."

Anniversary services were held in the Western Church last Sunday Rev. Dr. Briggs of Toronto was the preacher both morning and evening. Dr. Briggs as a man of business and affairs has a continental reputation for success, but Dr. Briggs as a preacher transcends. In the morning "An obscure Disciple" was his subject, a character sketch which bristled with points and was most edifying whilst at night his exposition of subject was the World's Redeemer and uplifted the thought of his hearers by the exaltation of the Christ. Dr. Briggs will be welcomed back to Napanee at any time. The musical service of the day was most excellent.

The first case of supposed rabies, in this vicinity, is reported from Bath. The victim is Stanley Detlor, the eight-year-old son of William V. Detlor, a farmer living near Bath. On Saturday last the boy was playing with some other children when a large collie dog, owned by John Loyst a neighbor, came along and without any provocation attacked the boy, sinking his teeth into his arm, terribly lacerating the arm. Two men working in a field near by, ran to the child's assistance and succeeded in beating the animal off with much difficulty. Later the dog was shot. The head of the animal was sent to C. A. Hodgetts, provincial health officer, Toronto, for analysis. The boy is under medical treatment in Napanee and the result of the analysis is awaited with great anxiety. The dog was a docile animal and never known to be cross before. This is the first case of rabies, if it should prove so, in this neighborhood.

ROBERT THOMPSON.

By the death of Mr. Robert Thompson, Napanee loses one of its most influential and highly esteemed citizens. His demise occurred early in the afternoon of Monday, the 15th of this month. The sad event was not entirely unexpected, as Mr. Thompson has been suffering from an attack of typhoid fever against which his constitution was unable to make a successful stand. For some years passed his health has been far from vigorous but he has steadily continued until quite recently in the active service of a somewhat strenuous business life, and also discharged the duties of his church life with fidelity and zeal.

As a business man his value was quite as fully known in the great commercial metropolis of the Dominion as in this community whilst as a citizen and neighbour there never was a man who more desired peace and goodwill to men than did he, always setting himself on the side of the things that would best promote the highest interests of the mass.

In the building of Trinity Church Mr. Thompson took a most active part, serving as Treasurer of the Trust Board of which he was an honored member and the interests he took in the erection of that edifice will not be forgotten by those who were associated with him, not only contributing largely financially, but giving his clerical service and splendid business judgment to the work.

During a severe illness about 23 years ago, he determined to take the Lord Jesus as his personal Saviour, which deliberate and thoughtful choice was carried into effect when, according to his expressed desire he was recognized as a member of the church.

Quite recently he has been happily engaged in the re-modelling and decoration of his beautiful home, expecting to spend a few happy years in the occupancy of it, but the summons has come for him and he has quietly passed away to the more beautiful habitation "not made with hands but which is eternal in the heavens." Just one day after the anniversary day of his father's death by the same disease he passed away.

Mr. Thompson is survived by four brothers, Messrs. Alexander, Thomas, Rensselaer and George, and four sisters, Mrs. John J. Bush, Mrs. Henry VanAlstyne, and Misses Emma and Alma.

Napanee Canoe Club.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Canoe Club was held at the Public Library on Monday evening last and was well attended. The Commodore, Mr. A. E. Battle presided. After disposing of some routine business the election of officers for the ensuing year took place with the following results:

Honorary Commodore Harvey Warner.

Commodore—Dr. Leonard.

Vice Commodore—Herbert Daly.

Secretary—E. R. Fitzgerald.

Treasurer—G. J. S. Loyne.

Clerk of the Course—T. A. Gale.

Time and starter—A. E. Battle.

Judges—D. L. Hill, R. G. H. Travers.

F. Miller, E. R. Checkley.

Captain—J. C. Carroll.

It was unanimously decided to again rent the dock and boat-house. After some discussion the meeting voted upon the question of fees, and it was decided that in order to properly finance the club that the fees for membership should be two dollars.

With the outlook for an increase in membership and the assurance of a number of new canoes, the season of 1910 promises to be the most successful in the history of the club. Some prizes for this years races have already been offered and it is to be hoped that the club receives the support of the town people in encouraging good, clean healthy sport for the summer months.

Queen's Own Rifles Semi-Centennial Reunion.

Arrangements are being made for a celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the Queen's Own Rifles in Toronto beginning on Saturday June 18th, 1910 and lasting several days. The committee in charge are anxious to have with them at the celebration as many as possible of the thousands of ex-members now scattered over the Continent. The celebration will consist of a Reception at Government House. His Honor being an ex-member and on Sunday there will be church parade and during the week will be held Grand Historical Pageants on a Extensive Scale in the open air along with many social functions. It is desirous that all the ex-members, who may be living in the County and vicinity should organize for the purpose of attending the pageant. All the ex-members are therefore requested to send their names and addresses to G. F. Ruttan, K. C. Napanee, who has been asked to get a list of the ex-members in this vicinity. All the ex-members will therefore confer a favor by sending their names and addresses, whether they intend to attend or not, to Mr. Ruttan and he will keep them informed as to the details of all the arrangements.

A Fine Play.

"St. Elmo", the story which though written years ago, is in steady demand in all the public libraries to-day, is to be told in a play. A special company has been formed to present it through this region. The players have been selected with careful attention to the great dramatic possibilities of "St. Elmo." The dramatization is by Miss Grace Hayward, who converted the popular romance "Graustark" into a most successful play. "St. Elmo" contains many interesting characters, including St. Elmo Murray, who confessed "he was not quite a brute, nor altogether a malicious and vindictive devil, but a man who had hopelessly lost his character." That he had not hopelessly lost it was stirringly revealed, and this is the dramatic texture which is going to make "St. Elmo" a play of interest to many people. "St. Elmo" will be presented at the Brisco opera house next Monday evening, April 25th.

DESERONTO.

At a place near Maynooth on Monday, when unloading timber, Michael McKeown, aged sixty years, met his death. The remains arrived in Deseronto on Tuesday evening and was taken to his late residence, corner of Thomas and Green street. The funeral was held on Wednesday morning at St. Vincent De Paul Church where Rev. Father P. J. Hartigan said Requiem High Mass, after which the remains were conveyed to Camden Church cemetery. The late Mr. McKeown lived for many years at Camden and was a highly respected citizen. A number of relatives and friends from there attended the funeral. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Miles, despatcher B. Q. Ry. at Napanee; Patrick A. agent B. Q. Ry., Deseronto, and one daughter, Mrs. John Dillon, of Enniskillen.

The Ladies Aid of St. Mark's church held an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. R. Bolton, Thomas street, on Wednesday afternoon from three to six.

A special meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening when Mr. Ostrum of the Trenton Electric Power Company met the town fathers to consult them on electric power for lighting, water works and manufacturing. He is to present fuller details and information at the next meeting.

Grand Concert.

The Napanee Ladies' Musical Club intend closing the season with a Grand Concert, to be held in the Town Hall, Friday evening, April 22nd, at eight o'clock. Mr. Blight, of Toronto, (soloist) has been engaged, also Miss Zollner (pianist). The programme is being arranged by Mesdames Robinson and Miller. Admission to everyone 25c.

Collegiate Notes.

The meeting of the Literary Society took place on Thursday afternoon the 14th inst. The program was as usual, of a varied and interesting character. Two scenes from the "Merchant of Venice" (by the bard of Avon, the renowned Shakespeare) were ably acted by a number of students betraying a degree of talent in the acting line, quite unexpected by the casual observer. The characters were Duke, Louis Meng; Shylock, Russel Williams; Antonio, Gordon Campbell; Bassanio, Grant Dickenson; Gratiano, Douglas Ham; Clerk, Jack Soby; Portia, Vert Bell; Nerissa, Nora Waller. The customary "Journal" provoked considerable fun and laughter. The musical portion of the programme consisted of a vocal and piano solo by the students and proved a pleasing addition to the literary efforts, rather successes, of the afternoon. Our collegiate staff has contrived a new method of entertaining the students and retaining their interests in school work. This method will be enforced next week in the form of examinations.

30 Farmers placed their applications for Insurance with the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance company aggregating $61,375.00 and added nine new Policies in the month of March, which record is seldom reached in any month at this season of year, and seals the fact that the farmers of Lennox and Addington and adjoining Counties are appreciating the benefits of having a home company made up of farmers and a Policy fashioned by farmers to suit their special requirements. A policy that will put a blanket insurance on your vehicles and implements in any building on your farm, without special mention, and insures your stock against fire or lightning anywhere on your premises, and in case of loss pays $80.00 for a horse and $25.00 for a cow. For some days past there have been reports in trade circles that an important consolidation might be looked for in the near future of two of the largest flour-milling concerns of Ontario, and that prominent Toronto capitalists were becoming identified with the enterprise, and would place in the new company $1,000,000 of additional cash capital, which would result in the new concern being able to show just as large an output as any other Canadian milling concern. Enquiry at the offices of the companies reported to be in the deal failed to elicit much information regarding the details, but it is understood that an important announcement in regard to the consolidation will be made within a few days.

Historical Meeting.

The regular April meeting of the Society was held in Historicall Hall, Friday evening and was well attended. Prof. E. J. Kyrie of the University of Toronto gave a very interesting lecture on St. Francis of Assisi. Prof. Kyrie handled his subject in a very entertaining manner, and made the life of St. Francis more real by emphasizing the events in his life which bring out his remarkable personality, and his devoted, lovable and charitable christian character. This was Prof. Kyrie's first visit to Napanee. Those who were fortunate enough to meet him are now his friends and will watch with interest his advance in the University world. The President announced after the lecture, that the next meeting would be the annual meeting of the Society and that it would be held on Friday evening May 13th. One of the most prominent historians in Canada, has promised a lecture on Canadian history for that evening. Full particulars will be announced later.
